Sheriff's Office Confirms Honoring of ICE Detainers

By Guy Leonard
Staff Writer

As state lawmakers pressure Gov. Wes Moore to ensure counties work closely with the U.S. Department of Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) to honor detainer orders on illegal immigrants, leadership with the St. Mary's County Sheriff's Office said the agency cooperates with the federal government on the issue.

"We most certainly honor ICE detainers," said Maj. Clay Safford, assistant sheriff. "We have a very good working relationship with ICE."

"They know who we are and they communicate with us when they need to."

This week, during the meeting of the Commissioners of St. Mary's County, Commissioner Mike Hewitt said he was approached by a constituent who told him St. Mary's was a "sanctuary county" and that the sheriff's office did not honor ICE detainers.

"That caught me by surprise," Hewitt said. "I can't imagine that the St. Mary's County Sheriff's [Office] is not working with the agents of [ICE]."

Hewitt said the constituent showed him a website, which Hewitt did not name, claiming the detention center did not work with ICE.

Safford said if their agency receives a detainer from ICE with a judge's signature, the detainer is honored immediately.

If there is no judge's signature, Safford said, deputies call ICE to get more information to ascertain probable cause for honoring the detainer.

If there is sufficient probable cause, deputies will find the suspect and hold them for ICE to be picked up later, Safford said.

"These detainers are very rare here," Safford told The County Times. "They amount to a handful a year."

The sheriff's office, the assistant sheriff said, closely follows immigration law and the guidance of the state's attorney general.

In 2018, then-attorney general Brian Frosh issued guidance state-wide stating that compliance with ICE detainers was voluntary but local law enforcement agencies could be held liable if they honored the detainer without probable cause.

Frosh's guidance also stated that the federal government could not require states or localities to enforce federal immigration law under the auspices of the Tenth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution. That guidance holds today, Safford said.

Del. Matt Morgan, (R-Dist. 29A) has joined a coalition of state lawmakers pressing for an executive order from the Moore administration on honoring ICE detainers of suspected illegal immigrants.

Morgan and others tout a recent poll that an overwhelming majority of Marylanders want local law enforcement agencies to cooperate with the federal government in enforcing immigration law.

Current state law, enacted in 2021 by the General Assembly, prohibits the state or local jurisdictions from entering into immigration detention agreements with the federal government or police from inquiring about a person's immigration status.

The bill was vetoed by then Gov. Larry Hogan but that veto was later overridden.

Detainers are requests for agencies to hold suspected illegal immigrants 48 hours past their release date from local custody.

Morgan, a member of what has become known as the Freedom Caucus in the General Assembly — made up of Republicans — chided Democrats for not cooperating so far on the push for the executive order.

"Their solution is to let that person [the subject of the detainer] back out onto the streets," Morgan said.

Delegate: State Agrees to Route 5, Route 6 Intersection Work

Del. Matt Morgan at the Route 5, Route 6 intersection.

By Guy Leonard
Staff Writer

Del. Matt Morgan, in a video message to constituents who commute on Route 5 and use the intersection with Route 6 near the Charlotte Hall Library, said SHA was making key changes to the intersection.

"Your commute will be getting much easier," Morgan (R-Dist. 29A) said. "After two-and-a-half years of disagreement, SHA has agreed to improve this intersection."

The improvements will center on the stop light near the section of Route 5 close to the Three Notch Trail, commonly used by pedestrians and bicyclists alike, he said.

During the COVID-19 pandemic, Morgan said, the Three Notch Trail experienced heavy use, but "we had some near misses there" of cars nearly hitting trail users.

Restriping of the trail by SHA and flashing warning signs were good improvements just a few years ago, Morgan said, but the lane that connects Route 5's north and south bound tracks — Route 6 with one lane going towards La Plata and the other restricted to a single left-hand turn back onto the southbound track of Route 5 — caused traffic jams going back down along Route 5's northbound track.

"What that did was create a lot of congestion in this area," Morgan said. "It dropped this intersection down to a level of service 'F,' it was functioning at a [level of service] 'C.'"

The changes will take both of the lanes on the connecting Route 6 spur to be routed back towards La Plata, Morgan said, and additional protections for the Amish communities living close to the trail entrance on Route 6 approaching the border with Charles County.

Morgan praised Gov. Wes Moore's administration with pushing the project forward, as well as District 29 Sen. Jack Bailey and senior leadership at SHA.

Four Juveniles Arrested for Attempted Armed Carjackings

Following an investigation into attempted carjackings over the past weekend, deputies from the St. Mary's County Sheriff's Office, with assistance from the Calvert and Charles County Sheriff's Office's Emergency Services Teams, executed simultaneous search and seizure warrants on multiple residences in St. Mary's County today. Four juvenile male suspects, ranging in age from 15 to 17, were taken into custody and charged with conspiracy to commit carjacking.

During the execution of a search warrant at one residence, deputies recovered two firearms: a Taurus G2c with obliterated serial numbers, chambered with a 9mm round and containing a magazine with two rounds, and a Glock Model 19 equipped with a conversion device, known as a "switch," which alters the firearm from semi-automatic to fully automatic. The Glock was loaded with an extended magazine containing 21 rounds. Additionally, deputies seized approximately 1,614 suspected fentanyl pills, six individually packaged bags of suspected cannabis, and a scale.

Sheriff Steve Hall praised the team of law officers who tracked down the suspects and made the arrests.

"If you make the decision to commit crime in our county, you'll be pursued by a team of committed professionals with unparalleled determination to bring you to justice," Hall told The County Times.

The juvenile, age 17, was charged as an adult with 11 criminal counts, including two counts of CDS: possession with intent to distribute, two counts of use of a firearm during a drug trafficking crime, CDS: possession of a large amount, CDS: possession — not cannabis, two counts of possession of a regulated firearm by a person under 21, illegal possession of ammunition, possession of a rapid-fire trigger activator, and possession of a machine gun.

Hall said, "The swift execution of these search warrants and the recovery of weapons and drugs highlights the critical work our deputies are doing to keep St. Mary's County safe. We are unwavering in our commitment to hold accountable those who threaten the safety of our community."

Law enforcement agencies are prohibited from publicly identifying a juvenile, even when charged as an adult, due to legal protections safeguarding the juvenile's identity throughout the judicial process.

Leonardtown Hosts Ukrainian Municipal Leaders

By Guy Leonard
Staff Writer

About a dozen mayors and deputy mayors of cities and towns throughout Ukraine were eager to learn about Leonardtown and all the progress it has made in the past 30 years on their visit to the town Sept. 23.

They had made their trip, with the cooperation of the Washington, D.C.-based policy think tank Center for Strategic and International Studies, in hopes of seeing how towns and cities could revitalize in light of their own struggles with keeping their own towns and cities running while at war with Russia for nearly 1,000 days now.

Mykola Vavryshchuk, the deputy mayor of Khmelnytski, a city many times larger than Leonardtown, was impressed with what he saw when he visited the St. Mary's County seat.

"It's a really cool [town]," Vavryshchuk told The County Times. "It's very clean and the people are, even for such a small town, are very active."

"I love it."

During a briefing by town staff for the visiting dignitaries about all things Leonardtown, their plans to revitalize the downtown and the wharf property, their plans to expand the capacity at the town's wastewater treatment plant and their plans to get a developer to expand amenities at the waterfront all interested Ukrainian guests.

But Vavryshchuk was the first to "bring sad tales" to what was good in Leonardtown.

Leonardtown Mayor Dan Burris, center right, hosts Ukrainian municipal leaders

He praised the United States for supplying so much aid to his country in its fight against Russia, which invaded the mainland of Ukraine in 2022 but had annexed Crimea dating back to 2014 in offensive military operations after Ukraine had deposed a pro-Russian regime.

"We wanted to do the same things you are doing before 2022," Vavryshchuk. "But now we have to think about bomb shelters for our kindergartens and... where to bury our heroes who have been killed in the fighting."

"Thank you for helping us, we still need more help."

Laschelle McKay, town administrator, who gave the presentation and answered the many questions put to her by the Ukrainian officials, said it "was hard" to give the presentation on the improvements made in Leonardtown, while so much damage and hardship had been inflicted on Ukraine.

Back in the 1990s there was talk of Leonardtown being disincorporated after many businesses were abandoned on the town square and there were efforts to move the courthouse and post office out of the downtown area. But officials then worked hard to keep both government anchors in the downtown and were able to push for a business revitalization program that continues to this day.

Vavryshchuk's city lies in the western portion of Ukraine, far from the frontlines of the war, but it's still in great danger.

"Russian rockets are flying everywhere," Vavryshchuk said. "We get hit at least once a month."

"The Russians are trying to ruin our energy system."

Iryna Karabut, mayor of Krasnokutsk, is much closer to the eastern border with Russia and her oblast — or state — of Kharkiv has seen much destruction.

Her city has taken in 24,000 internally displaced people (IDPs), roughly the same number of people living in her city but they have found work for them in difficult times, she said. They've found work in manufacturing drones for the war, she said, and in picking various berries grown for export sale grown in the region's rich agricultural lands.

She sees many similarities between Krasnokutsk and Leonardtown, she said, including its focus on proximity to the water for revitalization and business opportunity expansion.

"The roads," Karabut said when asked what her favorite part of Leonardtown was, noting the Russians had destroyed many of them. "And the construction of the new water treatment plan."

"And I liked the people."

Commissioners Briefed on State Transportation Plan

State Secretary of Transportation Paul Wiedefeld

By Guy Leonard
Staff Writer

The state's Secretary of Transportation Paul Wiedefeld told county leaders this week that funding constraints and the continued slow pace of the state's economic growth meant that the Department of Transportation would be focusing on providing transportation essentials for the near future.

The current six-year program for state-wide transportation improvement projects faces a deficit of roughly $350 million, Wiedefeld said, with a concurrent cost increase projected of about $300 million.

"The department is making focused investments, with our limited resources, to safety and maintaining the current operation," Wiedefeld said at the Sept. 24 meeting in Leonardtown.

Overall, he said, the comprehensive transportation plan (CTP) has been reduced in funding by $1.3 billion.

State Highway Administrator William Pines, announced though that the state has completed several pedestrian level safety projects.

The major project is sidewalk improvements from Route 235's intersection with Chancellors Run Road down to the intersection with Great Mills Road further south, Pines said.

New crosswalks at Chancellors Run Road and North Run Drive, Route 235 at Oak Crest Drive and Wildewood Boulevard had already been completed, Pines said.

One of the biggest accomplishments, he said, was the completed work on Route 5 through Leonardtown at Abell and Moakley streets.

"We are really happy to deliver this project," Pines said. "We know it's an important project for the community."

The project to replace the Route 5 bridge over Hilton Run in Park Hall is currently underway also, he said, at a cost of $6.8 million.

Officials signaled that they were continuing to seek 100 percent funding from the federal government for a replacement for the destroyed Francis Scott Key Bridge in Baltimore but if that were not attained, they would have to finance it through toll roads and bridges.

Del. Todd Morgan (R-Dist.29C) asked Wiedefeld if there was a plan to replenish the transportation trust fund to repair roads, which historically has been filled by gasoline tax revenue, but has dwindled recently with the advent of electric vehicles and greater gas mileage in vehicles.

"We have no public transportation down here," Morgan said. "Is there any way to receive more money to take care of our highways and byways here in Southern Maryland?"

Wiedefeld said his department was keen on getting all the federal dollars it could to to help and that it had taken an 8 percent cut in funding to allow for more to be put towards roads.

Commissioner Scott Ostrow again asked about the status of the replacement for the Gov. Thomas Johnson Bridge.

"That bridge is extremely important," Ostrow said. "It's a vital corridor."

"It's a matter of national security." Pines said there was money for the state in 2025 to begin site surveys of the bridge replacement area and to examine the potential height of a new bridge, though main funding for any construction did not exist.

Commissioners Approve Affordable Housing Support Deals

Joe Baker Village

By Guy Leonard
Staff Writer

The Commissioners of St. Mary's County this week approved two deals known as PILOTS (payments in lieu of taxes) that will help support the renovation of certain, already existing affordable housing stock and the construction of new affordable town homes.

The agreement allows Green Street Housing and TM Associates to avoid paying property taxes to the county in exchange for a lower amount to facilitate the building of much-needed affordable housing stock, according to the agreement unanimously consented to by the commissioners at their Sept. 24 business meeting.

The first project will be the rehabilitation of Joe Baker Village and Great Mills Court, county planning documents state, located on Lexwood Drive.

Joe Baker Village consists of 36 senior rental units while Great Mills Court consists of 44 family units.

Green Street Housing asked for a PILOT agreement for 20 years that would reduce the property taxes by $300 per unit per year for a total reduction of $10,800 for Joe Baker Village and $16,800 for Great Mills Court.

The same developer partnership also received a PILOT deal to develop the Villas at Lexwood, a 40-townhome project, also to be built on Lexwood Drive in Lexington Park.

The St. Mary's Transit System Joe Baker Court bus stop is located within 1,000 ft of the development, county planning documents state and the project is also within a quarter mile of Great Mills High School, George Washington Carver Elementary, and the planned Lexington Park YMCA.

The developer asked for and received a PILOT agreement for 20 years that would reduce the property taxes by $300 per unit per year for a total reduction of $12,000. In addition, GSH is asking for a waiver of the excise tax of $128,720.

St. Mary's Share of Cannabis Revenue Will Be Small

By Guy Leonard
Staff Writer

Comptroller Brooke Lierman announced this week that her office will be distributing $22 million in revenue from the sale cannabis collected in Maryland between April and June but nearly half of that is already slated to go into the state's general fund, a release from her office states.

In fact, just 5 percent of the entire take will be redistributed directly to the counties.

"The market for cannabis continues to grow in Maryland and has shown capacity to create new jobs, new investment, and new opportunities, particularly for areas that are marginalized and left behind by a changing economy," Lierman said.

Adult-use cannabis and cannabis products are taxed at a rate of 9 percent. The revenue is distributed to several funds as required by the Cannabis Reform Act of 2023, which legalized the personal use of cannabis for adults over the age of 21.

Approximately 35 percent, or more than $7 million, of the revenue take will go to the Community Reinvestment and Repair Fund.

The southern region of the state, which includes St. Mary's, Calvert and Charles counties, accounted for just $873,597 in cannabis tax revenue, state figures showed, while the central region accounted for $11.3 million.

The eastern region accounted for $3.1 million.

Lexington Park Man Convicted of Attempted Murder Admits Stabbing Another Bar Patron Over a Spilled Drink

State's Attorney Jaymi Sterling announced today that Winston Warren Smith, 39, of Lexington Park, Maryland, faces a maximum penalty of 30 years in prison after admitting guilt to the attempted second-degree murder of another bar patron.

In April 2024, Smith was involved in an incident at a bar located on Great Mills Road in Lexington Park, Maryland. After a verbal argument turned physical, both Smith and the victim were asked to leave the bar. Smith exited the establishment first. Once the victim made it outside, Smith and an accomplice attacked the victim, and Smith stabbed the victim multiple times with a knife.

Within minutes, law enforcement officers from the St. Mary's County Sheriff's Office arrived on scene and located the victim suffering from multiple stab wounds. First responders arrived and quickly rendered aid to the victim. Before the victim was transported to shock trauma, the victim told investigators that he was involved in an argument over a spilled drink. Smith was later identified as the individual who stabbed the victim and was subsequently arrested.

Smith will be held without bond pending a sentencing hearing where he faces a maximum penalty of 30 years in prison.

Winston Warren Smith

Assistant State's Attorneys Zachary Varda and Kirstin Riddle prosecuted the case on behalf of the citizens of St. Mary's County.

Detective Benjamin Raley of the St. Mary's County Sheriff's Office was the lead investigator.

The Honorable Michael J. Stamm presided over the case.

Route 5 Bridge Replacement Begins

SHA has begun its construction project to replace the MD 5 (Point Lookout Road) bridge at the crossing of Hilton Run. Originally constructed in 1936, the bridge is safe for the traveling public, but the bridge is nearing the end of its useful service life.

The bridge replacement will provide wider shoulders to enhance safety. To reduce the overall impacts of the project on adjacent properties, the new bridge will be constructed along the same roadway alignment. Traffic during construction will be reduced to one alternating lane controlled by temporary traffic signals placed on each side of the bridge.

If the bridge is not replaced, weight restrictions (reduced loads for trucks) would need to be posted to ensure safety. This restriction would have a significant impact on the local economy since MD 5 functions as a primary travel route for traffic traveling in St. Mary's County.

The MD 5 project involved a design process that considers the needs of the traveling public to ensure their continued safety and mobility within the transportation network. Every effort will be made to minimize impacts on the traveling public while providing a quality transportation asset.

Replacing the bridge will save money on future maintenance spending and support safety and mobility as a part of SHA's goal of maintaining Maryland's transportation system.

Free Document Shredding Event Announced

It's time to clean out your filing cabinets and desks to get rid of confidential, private, or important personal documents that you no longer need to keep!

The Department of Public Works & Transportation (DPW&T) will host their biannual Community Shredding Event on Saturday, October 26, 2024, from 8 a.m. – noon at the St. Andrews Landfill, located at 44837 St. Andrews Church Road.

This community event gives residents the opportunity to have their confidential, private, and important documents destroyed by a professional shredding service at no cost. This type of shredding turns sensitive documents into confetti-sized pieces, ensuring that confidential material cannot be copied.

All paper material shredded during the event will then be recycled.

Please refrain from bringing materials that are not confidential in nature, such as newspapers and magazines (acceptable for recycling at the six Convenience Centers) as they will cause the truck to fill up more quickly. The shredder can handle simple staples, paper clips, spiral notebooks, and thin metal prongs, however it cannot accept 3 ring binders. Please limit the number of boxes you bring to 3 standard bankers' boxes (10"H x 12"W x 15" D) per person so we can serve as many residents as possible.

For more information, please call DPW&T at (301) 475-4200, ext. 3550, or visit www.stmaryscountymd.gov.

Mediators Offer New Peer Program for Great Mills Students

Community Mediation of St. Mary's continuing conflict-management programs throughout the county now have expanded into Great Mills High School, working directly with students in the school.

"They took the initiative to start student-to-student peer mediation," Mia Bowers, the mediation center's executive director, said of the school in central St. Mary's. "We're going to be in their school, one day a week."

The new on-campus offering at Great Mills expands the center's longstanding outreach to all St. Mary's students from kindergarten through their senior year, and to their parents, including facilitating meetings where team members create individual education plans (IEP).

Student-to-student peer mediation addresses the need for immediate conflict resolution resources in schools. Mediators work with students, teachers and parents to reduce violence and resolve conflict by providing a peaceful and collaborative problem-solving process.

The school-related mediation services have long been available through self-referrals from parents or teachers, but Great Mills' administration is the first to work directly with the mediation center, Bowers said at the center's recently expanded office on Courthouse Drive in Leonardtown.

"Great Mills is excited to identify students for peer-to-peer mediation," Bowers said. "We (also) will be training students to become mediators."

Another school-support service offered by the center, several of which were listed in a Commission on the School-to-Prison Pipeline report as restorative interventions, focuses on attendance mediation.

Responding to the challenges of truancy brings together parents and teachers to identify underlying issues, addresses the complex factors that cause truancy for a particular child, and develops a collaborative plan to address those issues. Good attendance is critical to academic success, and students who are truant are more likely to drop out, become involved with the juvenile justice system and become victims of crime. Patterns of truancy begin early and are highly predictive of future academic and social struggles. During attendance mediations, families often are made aware of resources available to support them within the school and community.

Bowers said the center's volunteer mediators also take part in facilitating after-school programs, in partnership with Pyramid Health Care's youth community center, The Cove, located in Lexington Park. Pyramid's PosiTeen program and Building Bridges, a separate nonprofit entity, both "provide enrichment to students," Bowers said, including skills building and support with homework.

The services also are available to assist home-schooled children and their families, Bowers said, all part of the mediation center's broader mission to empower people of all ages to talk with each other to find solutions.

"It's helping students learn how to deal with conflict, and avoid it in the future," she said.

For more information on the center, its free mediation services and outreach programs, and how to support this nonprofit organization, go online to <http://www.communitymediationSMC.org> or call 301-475-9118.

FINANCIAL FOCUS®

Know the risks of investing — and not investing

As an investor, you'll always need to deal with risk of some kind. But how can you manage the risk that's been made clear by the recent volatility in the financial markets? The answer to this question may depend on where you are in life.

Let's start with the risks associated with investing. There's not a single investment risk because different types of investments carry different types of risk. Here's a look at three investment categories and some of the risks connected with them:

- Stocks — When you invest in stocks or stock-based mutual funds, you will incur the risk that the value of your investments may decline. Stock prices can fall for any number of reasons — lower-than-expected earnings, a change in management, change in consumer tastes, and so on. Although the historical trend for stocks has been positive, there will always be periods when prices are down. One way to help defend against this volatility is to hold stocks for the long term, rather than constantly buying and selling, and to own a mix of stocks from different industries and even different countries.
- Bonds — When market interest rates rise, the value of your bonds can decline because investors won't pay full price for them when they can get the newer ones that offer higher rates. Another type of risk associated with bonds is credit risk, which essentially describes the risk that the bond issuer may default, potentially disrupting your flow of interest payments. However, you can help mitigate this risk by purchasing investment-grade bonds that receive the highest credit ratings from independent rating agencies.
- Certificates of deposit (CDs) — Although CDs are generally considered safe because their principal is guaranteed, they do carry reinvestment risk — the risk that you won't be able to reinvest the proceeds of a maturing CD at the same interest rate. To help protect against this risk, you could own CDs of varying maturities. When market rates are low, you'll still have your longer-term CDs paying higher interest, and when market rates rise, you can reinvest the money from your maturing shorter-term CDs into the new, higher-paying ones.

Now, let's turn to a completely different type of risk — the risk of not investing. And this risk is easy to understand: If you don't invest, or if you consistently invest only in the most conservative vehicles, your money may not grow enough to allow you to reach your important long-term goals, such as a comfortable retirement.

Of course, this doesn't mean you should never own conservative investments, including CDs and some types of bonds. When you're saving for a short-term goal, such as a down payment on a house, a wedding or a long vacation, you want the money to be there when you need it, so an investment that offers protection of principal may be appropriate, even if it doesn't provide much in the way of growth.

For those long-term goals, though, you may need to build an investment portfolio that contains growth potential and that reflects your personal risk tolerance and time horizon. Over time, your risk tolerance may change. As you get closer to retirement, you may want to take a somewhat more conservative approach — but you'll always need some elements of growth.

When you invest, risk can't be eliminated, but it can be managed. Keeping this in mind, consider a long-term investment strategy that allows for risk but also offers the possibility of reward.

Wanderings of an Aimless Mind by Shelby Oppermann

I See You Talking, But I Can't Hear You

I know not everyone loves rainy, cool fall weather, especially my husband and others who are out working in it every day, but I love it. It feels cozy to me and (almost) makes me want to get under the steps to bring out the rest of the fall decorations. Mindy is enjoying extra snooze time, which really sounds good to me. You can tell from the photo that rainy weather makes her sleepy. I have noticed that a lot of people in our neighborhood already have their Halloween decorations up in their yards. I imagine those are houses with young children. Although I am tempted to put a table full of seated skeletons in the front yard right now. I wonder if the early decorations are a result of all the Halloween décor that has been on display since Easter. "If you see it you want it" which is what retail is counting on. I understand that. I went to one store this week to get someone a fall themed gift and saw that there was one little table of fall items, and the rest was Halloween and Christmas. Fall just started!

On the same day I was out gift shopping I also had an audiology appointment in California. I had been referred from the Ear, Nose, and Throat doctor (I'm sure there is a technical name for that specialty, but it escapes me). My ears are perfectly clear both doctors have told me, but I have a fair amount of hearing loss in my right ear. If my left ear is down on the pillow, I have trouble hearing the bedroom TV or my husband, so I am constantly lifting my head to hear a show or hear him. If I lay on my right side all I see is the wall.

I spent quite awhile in the audiologists office doing lots of tests. As I mentioned she said my ears are clear with her first test. And then we went into the first beeps test which was okay too. All the time I was in her office I was shooting terrified glances at the big silver box in the corner with a window, praying I didn't need to go in there. The dreaded moment did in fact come when she said it was time for testing to be done in that small box, which in my mind had increasingly looked smaller and smaller every moment. I explained all about my claustrophobia while wondering if the door would jam and I would be trapped in there gasping for air, my face and hands plastered to the window like in a horror film all while slowly collapsing to the floor. I was envisioning Edward Munch's The Scream painting except with my face.

The kind, soft-spoken audiologist said that if I was really worried then the door could be left slightly ajar, which eased some of my fear. And she was just so nice. I said, "Well there is that window" which had suddenly appeared more like its normal size. I had sound booth testing many years ago, but that was all before one particular MRI was done where they put the Hannibal Lecter mask over my face which immediately triggered my unknown claustrophobia. That MRI was considered incomplete because I somehow slipped out of the machine and was down in the parking lot before my husband had even parked the car. Anyway, at the audiologists office, I tamped the fear down, walked into the soundproof booth, took a few deep breaths, and got so caught up in listening for beeps with the Pure-tone test that I did fine. She also did the gradually softer speech test and the bone conduction test. I'll admit I was glad when the door finally opened.

After that we discussed the results of the testing which had some rather surprising results. All the tests showed that my right ear, which seemed to have a large hearing loss actually was the better ear and both ears fell into pretty much the normal range with expected minimal loss on different sound ranges for my age. The audiologist told me that one cause might be an Auditory Processing Disorder where someone says something, and it takes my brain a second or so to figure out (process) what a person has said. Once in a while I try to read lips because things sound garbled to me. I told her I probably had ear damage from laying down on the floor with my head between the speakers as a teen, or from all the concerts I have attended in my life. The funny thing though is that most of my auditory processing issues seem to occur when listening to my husband...hmmm. I think they need a new term called Spousal Auditory Processing Disorder.

To each new day's adventure, Shelby

In addition to overhead lines, SMECO has many underground electric lines. Call Miss Utility at 811 before you dig.

Stay safe around power lines

As we slide into fall, many people are finishing projects around the house and yard in preparation for the coming winter months. It's important to stay safe and be aware of overhead power lines. Look up.

- Never climb power poles or transmission towers.
- Never climb trees near power lines.
- Keep equipment away from overhead lines when carrying ladders, pool skimmers, and pruning tools.
- If you are doing work close to power lines—such as trimming trees, working on your roof, or doing exterior renovations—keep yourself, your ladder, and anything you are handling a safe distance from the power line.
- Contact SMECO to disconnect power if you are doing work that requires close contact with overhead lines attached to your home.
- Use a licensed electrician for all electrical work.
- Plant trees away from power lines.

Download our free mobile app or use our texting service to report an outage or pay your bill.

CalvertHealth to Host 15th Annual Breast Cancer 5K

CalvertHealth will hold its 15th Annual Breast Cancer 5K on Saturday, October 19 in beautiful Solomons Island. New this year, there will be a fun one-and-a-half-mile walk, which will follow along scenic Solomons Island. Proceeds from the event will benefit the CalvertHealth Cancer Center's Sheldon E. Goldberg Center for Breast Care and its continued affiliation with Duke Health. Duke Health is a national leader in cancer care, opening doors to clinical trials and research for local patients close to home. The Breast Care Center was the first multidisciplinary breast center in Southern Maryland and gives local women and men access to an experienced team of breast health experts and the most sophisticated technology available today.

With higher mortality rates for breast cancer in Calvert County versus the state of Maryland and the United States, the 5K helps raise critical funds to support keeping breast care services close to home. Since the inception of the event in 2010, the 5K has raised more than $500,000 to support the critical work of the Sheldon E. Goldberg Center for Breast Care.

Foundation Board Vice Chair and 5K Committee Chair Barry Friedman said, "Last year, this 5K almost doubled what we previously raised, bringing in more than $102,000. Together, we have an opportunity to continue to make this 5K better than the previous year! Register to walk or run with your friends, family, co-workers, classmates or neighbors and show your support. We all know someone who has been touched by breast cancer and this is our opportunity to show our support for the Sheldon E. Goldberg Center for Breast Care."

Race check-in begins at 7 a.m. and the program begins at 8 a.m. at the Solomons Medical Office Building located at 14090 Solomons Island Road. To take advantage of the $40 early bird rate and a guaranteed t-shirt, participants should register by September 27. Race registration will be available for $50 per registrant leading up to the event. All proceeds benefit the Sheldon E. Goldberg Center for Breast Care. # Calvert County Fair Traffic Plan

For safety purposes, a special traffic plan will be in effect throughout fair week.

No vehicles will be allowed to turn left off of Rt. 231 into the fairgrounds during operating fair hours. An alternate route would be to use Rt. 506 (Sixes Rd.) to Rt. 508 (Adelina Rd) to Rt. 231, which would allow a right turn into the fairgrounds.

Once the fairground parking lots are full, satellite parking with a free shuttle bus service will be available at College of Southern Maryland (CSM) located at 115 J W Williams Road in Prince Frederick, from Friday thru Sunday as needed.

During rush hour traffic, limited access to the lots at the fairgrounds will be granted for a period of time to ease the flow of traffic on Rt. 231.

Local Bidding Preference Approved

By Dick Myers
Staff Writer

The Calvert County Board of County Commissioners (BOCC) on Sept. 24 formally adopted an ordinance that gives a five percent bid preference to local businesses. The ordinance becomes effective on Oct. 1.

The approval came two weeks after a public hearing and follows authority for the local preference having been granted by the Maryland General Assembly during their 2024 session.

Director of Finance and Budget Bruce Miller explained, "In 2018, the BOCC requested and was given authority to apply a reciprocal preference when awarding contracts. The reciprocal preference requires that the county 'give a preference to a resident bidder over a nonresident bidder that is equal to the preference given by the county or state in which the nonresident bidder has its principal office to bidders that have a principal office in that county or state.' The reciprocal preference is intended to help a Calvert County business that is being penalized for being a Calvert County business where the lowest bidder on a Calvert County job enjoys a local preference in its home jurisdiction.

"An analysis of Calvert County's procurement activities from 2022 to 2024 shows that, despite the reciprocal preference, nonresident businesses prevail over local in both participation and amount awarded. Combining local preference policies with reciprocal preference considerations could help to level the field for local businesses, ensuring they have a fair chance in the competitive bidding process. Therefore, the BOCC undertook a multi-year campaign, and, with the support of our community and the county's senators and delegation, will have on October 1, 2024, authority to implement a local preference in procurement bidding.

"The adopted public local law defines a local business as one with its 'Principal Office' in Calvert County. The 'Principal Office' is where the '...principal executive office of a domestic or foreign corporation is located and that is designated in the annual report or application for authority to transact business in the state'."

Deputy County Administrator Linda Turner, Economic Development Director, Julie Oberg, and Miller gathered subject matter experts from the community to develop a draft ordinance to implement the county's new authority. Miller said, "These community leaders and experts in their fields considered many factors, including balancing taxpayer burden with higher pricing, and taxpayer benefit of money originating in the county staying in Calvert County. They also had to consider the potential that other jurisdictions have their own reciprocal preference, which means that a Calvert County business would be penalized when applying to do work in a different county because Calvert has a local preference."

Regarding the fiscal impact of a local preference policy, Miller said, "Any higher cost should be returned in personal property and income taxes from enhanced revenues for local businesses."

Miller said the new policy has some exclusions. They are:

- Federal or state law, grant agreements, sub-recipient agreements, or other funding mechanism supporting the solicitation that precludes the offer of a local bid preference;
- When piggybacking other jurisdiction's competitively bid contracts;

- Purchases under cooperative agreements;
- Procurement has exercised any discretion afforded by Title 6 of the Code of Public Local Laws of Calvert County, Maryland to waive competitive bidding requirements in the following situations:
  - » Where it can be demonstrated that the requiring department could not have foreseen the required purchase in sufficient time for normal purchasing procedures to be used;
  - » Emergency Purchases, where life is in imminent peril and likely will be endangered, or property will be destroyed, or considerable costs will be incurred because of events beyond the control of the department if the procurement is not completed without delay; and
  - » At the direction of the County Administrator when other overriding factors warrant an exception.

Commissioner Mike Hart said, "The intent is to help local business because we understand the value of what it brings to lose contracts."

Hart added, "I truly believe we're rowing the right way this time. I really think we got everybody on board. And like I say, it might not be perfect, we might have to tweak it along the way, but I think we're finally, finally going the right way."

Commissioner President Buddy Hance added, "Studies have shown that 80 cents out of every dollar that's spent in a local business stays in that local community. So, we have had comments and emails come in opposing this. How can you spend more than you need to? You should never accept anything other than the lowest bidder. But we're talking about very small amounts of money.

And to see that little bit of money spent to support our local community and our local businesses, to us is well worth any pennies."

Miller noted, "Not only does the money stay, but there's what's called the multiplier effect that actually multiplies in value. So, by the time it goes through all the different vendors, that purchasing power just continues to grow and grow."

Miller said the next steps were:

"Support for resident bidders:

- Offer workshops and resources to help local businesses improve their bid proposals and better understand the competitive landscape could help increase their success rates.
- Set annual outreach goals with various training and workshop methods.

He also said to set stretch goals for resident bidders to include:

- Increase the number of bids received from resident bidders.
- Encourage repeat participation from resident bidders—historical data shows a low percentage of resident bidders that continue to participate.
- Aim to reduce non-resident bid amounts by 10 percent through local preference and reciprocal bidding opportunities."

Miller noted, "Recognizing that this is our first attempt at using this new tool to put the public money to work locally, staff should be prepared to report outcomes and experiences shared with them from the community, and take a directive to return to the Board of County Commissioners periodically for the Board to determine if adjustments are necessary to attain the goals of the local preference program."

Letters to the Editor

'We stand united'

Dear Residents of Lusby,

We are Save Lusby, Inc, a volunteer, non-profit advocacy group for Lusby Maryland. We stand united in our efforts to prevent the construction of large-scale apartment developments that threatens our environment, infrastructure and quality of life.

At a Town Hall held on July 9th, the citizens of Lusby came out in droves to express their deep concerns about the impact of the then proposed Lusby Villas project would have on our infrastructure, schools, traffic, and essential services like our volunteer fire-fighters and local law enforcement. Despite our public outcry, we were IGNORED by 4 members of the Calvert County Planning Commission who, on August 21st, voted to approve and proceed with this questionably orchestrated project.

We, citizens, are not going to take this flagrant abuse of power lying down! To help protect you, your family, your children and your community, legal counsel has been retained and a petition for judicial review of the Calvert County Planning Commission's final decision to approve the Lusby Villas project has been filed in the Circuit Court for Calvert County, Maryland.

The fight is just getting started folks. If we're going to stop this, we are going to have to band together as a community and show the Calvert County Planning Commission and the Board of County Commissioners that WE ARE TO BE HEARD!

To support our efforts, a Facebook page, *Save Lusby, Inc. has been created to keep our community informed of all developments as this fight progresses. Additionally, we have launched a GoFundMe page to raise funds for legal fees needed to challenge this development and ensure proper accountability. I urge you to support Save Lusby, Inc. in taking legal action to demand accountability and stop the overdevelopment of our cherished community. Together, we can make a difference and preserve the integrity of Lusby for future generations.

Sean McGuire, President

Mahoney Blasts School Board for Tennis Courts Closure

By Dick Mers
Staff Writer

Chesapeake Beach Mayor Pat Mahoney has chided the Calvert County Board of Education for shuttering the tennis courts at the new Beach Elementary School. And school system staff have pointed the blame at the county.

Mahoney, at the Sept. 19 school board meeting, said, "I'm here today because I am mad as hell over how the Board of Education is treating the good citizens of Chesapeake Beach, the grandmoms, moms, and children who enjoy tennis. In 2017, I was invited by the Board of Education and joined the Beach Elementary Education Specs Committee. My role was to ensure local community buy-in. During the stressful, noisy construction stage, I delivered as mayor. I was ensured that the construction of the tennis court would remain available to our citizenry."

"The tennis courts are a condition of the approval of the site plan and variance requests granted by the town of Chesapeake Beach to the board, an approval needed to construct the new Beach Elementary School. The BOE agreed to this."

"We have been wonderful, obliging partners. Well, guess what? In the dark of night, the BOE boarded up the tennis courts without informing the town and without even owning up to it until we spent weeks of probing. The board has not been good partners. You got what you wanted, and it's high time for this board to step up and deliver on your promises."

Mahoney added, "As the mayor of close to 7,000 residents in Chesapeake Beach, I insist that the Board of Education return the Beach Elementary School tennis courts back to the public. I insist that the board take action to prepare the courts and remove the boards blocking the entrance to a taxpayer funded recreational asset to our community. If the board is not positioned to do this, then I insist that the board deed the land to the county or the town, so the repairs can be made and the tennis courts can be returned to the public. As you're aware, the courts are owned by and are the responsibility of the Board of Education. The courts cannot be disregarded, boarded up in a visible sign of neglect by the board."

"President (Antoine) White, your campaign signs are right across the street from the tennis courts that you boarded up."

Director of Planning and Construction Shuchita Warner said, "They were shown as existing tennis courts at the time that we were going before the town to get approvals of the site plan. Our intention was, as in years past, to secure funds through the county government to get repairs done to the tennis courts because it had been paid for that way at least two other times before. However, the county government was not really interested in paying for repairs because they have other facilities in the area at this point."

She said the courts are now unsafe to play on.

Warner said she reached out to the town to see if they would be interested in an agreement, but the town balked at the condition the courts could only be used when school was out.

She said, "It would have to be a board decision if we were to change the parameters...and allow outsiders to come on our property during school hours."

Warner said one option would be to turn the courts over to the county, and they could give them to the town. She added, "But we would also have to take a look at all of the improvements that we made around the tennis court, as in sidewalks. We did a lot of work that the town had requested. We put in sidewalks, we put in a water line in the street where it was originally shown on our property. We included an asphalt walkway to Fishing Creek. These were improvements of about $200,000 that we made as part of this project at the towns request. So, certainly in terms of money to be able to repair these courts, obviously we're in a fiscal crunch. The courts don't have any kind of benefit directly to our elementary school students. So perhaps the best option is for us to consider, carving out that land, but we would have to look to see if potentially the state government might want to get some of the funds back that they have put towards the project."

Nothing was decided at the meeting other than to set up a meeting to try to resolve the issue. Board Vice Chair Inez Claggett said it should be explained to the town that the shuttering of the courts was not necessarily done with the knowledge of the board.

Commissioners Send Missive to Governor

The following is a copy of a letter sent to Gov. Wes Moore by the county commissioners regarding local school funding.

Dear Governor Moore,

The State of Maryland reduced funding to Calvert County Public Schools (CCPS) for Fiscal Year 2025 (FY25) in the amount of $22,457,474 due to the end of the Payment in Lieu of Taxes (PILOT) agreements with both Constellation Energy Generation's Calvert Cliffs Nuclear Power Plant and BHE GT&S's Cove Point LNG.

The end of these agreements caused an unrealistic wealth assessment for Calvert County which skewed the results of the State of Maryland's funding formula for CCPS. Going into FY25, the Board of County Commissioners was facing a difficult budget year which forced us to reduce spending across all program areas and hold the local contribution to CCPS at Maintenance of Effort (MOE).

We received the final State Aid calculations from the Maryland State Department of Education (MSDE) in May 2024. We began discussions with CCPS and the Calvert County Board of Education immediately to strategize on how CCPS could absorb the State's reduction in funding with the least impact to the staff and students and allow CCPS to fund the state-mandates for the Blueprint for Maryland's future. We delayed almost all County Capital Improvement Projects for several years and looked at local tax increases to bridge the funding gap. When we were notified of pending staff layoffs by CCPS, we scheduled an emergency meeting where we provided additional funding to CCPS for a total of $164.7 million for FY25 from Calvert County's fund balance and directed CCPS to use their fund balance to cover the remaining deficit. To balance our local budget, we were forced to increase local real property and income taxes.

We are pleased to report that negotiations are now complete and new PILOT agreements are in place for both facilities effective July 1, 2023. Cove Point LNG's new agreement is in effect through June 30, 2039, and Calvert Cliffs Nuclear Power Plant's new agreement is in effect through June 30, 2027. We were also pleased to see that the State of Maryland realized a surplus from last fiscal year with approximately $479 million in uncommitted surplus. We formally request the State use part of the uncommitted surplus to return the $22.5 million in funding to Calvert County Public Schools for FY25 now that the PILOT agreements have been restored.

Thank you for your attention to this matter.

School Cell Phone Policy Lauded

Concerns Raised About Vaping

By Dick Myers
Staff Writer

The policy banning cell phone use in classrooms is receiving high marks, based on comments at the Sept. 19 Calvert County Board of Education meeting.

Student Member of the Board Grace Minakowski said, in feedback she received from her recent student advisory council meetings, “Many students share their feelings of increased social interaction and focus, both inside and outside the classroom, with our new cell phone policy. This policy has exponentially improved relationships between students and reduced feelings of pressure to pull the phones out. And on a personal level, I can say that it has been amazing for my learning and for my friends.”

Minakowski also reported her peers’ concerns about school vandalism and vaping, which she said “has been a growing distraction to the school environment, especially among high schoolers. They shared that bathrooms were basically flooded with people to where no one could really use the bathroom. And the challenge was compounded as students had to use the bathroom during class time, but these bathrooms ended up being closed.”

Superintendent of Schools Dr. Andraé

Townsel talked about his beginning of school year “code of conduct tour.” He said, “We held assemblies at every school to talk about the new policies we have in place, specifically dress code policy, electronics policy, cell phone policy, and I personally, presented at every high school, every grade level at many of our middle schools. And I’m very excited to hear about the changes to the climate and culture.”

Regarding the students’ concerns, he said, “We will get on top of that and ensure that we are going to address that.”

Townsel added, “Sheriff Cox and I are continuing our safety walks. Today, we had the opportunity to walk across Northern High School, and we will hit every school, each month, every high school randomly. He and I will appear at any school and just do our walkthroughs to ensure safety and security, just to be proactive and to add value to what we already do, for example, when we have our K-9 searches. So, we’re just being visible, vocal, and vigilant about the safety of our young students.”

Board member Lisa Grenis said, “I would like to thank the parents and teachers who have reached out to me regarding the new cell phone policy. I have received several positive comments. This teacher summed it up best: ‘My students are listening, engaging with their peers and teachers, talking to each other, looking at each other when communicating and learning.’ I’d like to thank Dr. Townsel and his team for the awesome job they did, launching this new policy.”

Board member Jana Post quipped about cell phones, “I purposely did not tell my kids about that policy, because I just knew what was going to happen. And they came home after the first day of school and they blamed it all on Mrs. Grenis, (who spearheaded the anti-cell phone initiative). So, I did tell them that it was her fault, and I’m sticking with that.”

She added, “In all seriousness, they’re surviving and I have four, just like all the rest of them. And I think that it is better. I think our entire student body is better off without those devices. They are a huge distraction.”

Board member Dawn Balinski said, “When our own student member of the board says that it has exponentially improved the learning environment, oh my gosh, it’s wonderful. I know it’s not an end all, but at least there’s so much less distraction.”

Board Vice President Inez Claggett said about vaping, “We did change the code of conduct, and removed cell phones from school. Vape devices are also not allowed in school. But I would ask that our parents and our community work with us just as they have done with the cell phone policy to assure that their child is not bringing those devices into the school building. They do hinder the learning environment for other students who are in the building who may not use those devices.”

Planner Criticizes South County Industrial Zoning

By Dick Myers
Staff Writer

A member of the Calvert County Planning Commission has criticized a proposal to rezone eight parcels of land in south county to heavy industrial. Most of the parcels are near the county landfill, although one is owned by the operator of the Calvert Cliffs Nuclear Power Plant.

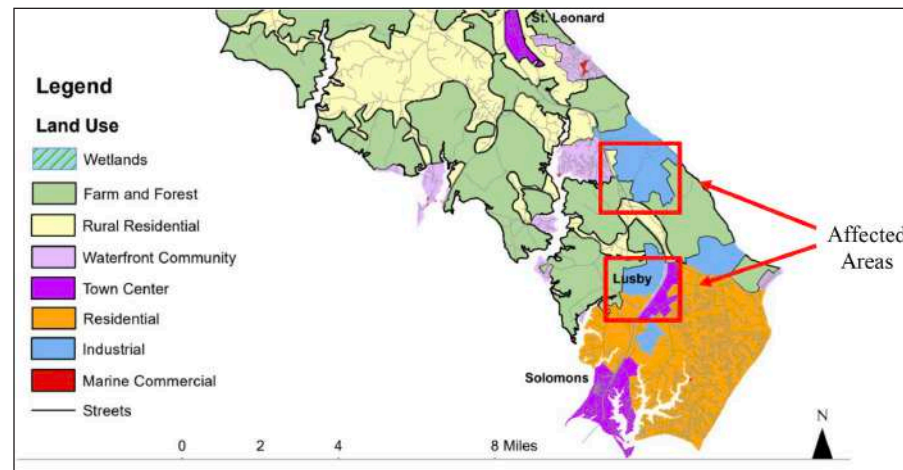

Commission member James McQueen made the comments at the Sept. 17 commission meeting. He said, “Everything gets stuck in the south and now you’re adding heavy industrial in the south. There’s so much more room in this Calvert County. Why don’t you just move it up a little bit further north and take that farmland and take that out land?”

He added, “All we’re doing is putting everything heavy and industrial in the south, which also happens to be one of the most widely used waterway areas. We’re just talking about more pollution.”

It was suggested that the largely vacant Patuxent Business Park be used for heavy industrial, but the commission was told that wasn’t possible because of the state’s involvement in funding that.

Long Range Planner Tay Harris explained the reasoning by the commissioners for the industrial zoning was “to potentially increase the tax base by encouraging businesses that bring little traffic and bring jobs to the county.”

As to what the new zoning will allow, she

Map showing location of the proposed heavy industrial zoning said, “So that’ll be coming forth in the zoning ordinance, many different uses. We had received some comments during the zoning ordinance update that people weren’t happy about allowing asphalt plants, things like that. And so that’s going to be a topic of discussion of whether or not we’re going to keep that. But right now, today, we only have light industrial.”

The proposal is part of a package of three changes as part of the zoning ordinance update. The others would eliminate the town center architectural review boards and cap zoning in town centers to four units per acre.

She explained, “On May 21, 2024, the Board of County Commissioners (BOCC) directed the Department of Planning and Zoning (P&Z) to eliminate the Architectural Review Committees (ARCs) for the county’s seven Town Centers. The intent of the BOCC is to streamline the development review process by allowing staff to perform administrative review in accordance with each Town Center’s Master Plan and Zoning Ordinance.”

She further noted, “On August 20, 2024, as part of the Calvert County Zoning Ordinance Update, the BOCC directed P&Z staff to allow a maximum of no more than four units per acre in Town Centers, unless the current allowable density is less than four units per acre.”

Regarding the eight parcels subject to change, she said, “These parcels are currently zoned Industrial-1 District (I-1), Rural Community District (RCD), or Farm and Forest District (FFD). The change would rezone these parcels as Heavy Industrial District (I-2).”

One of the parcels is the land owned by the county that was donated by Dominion for a new park. Director of Planning and Zoning Mary Beth Cook said the regulations would be changed to allow parks in heavy industrial zones.

The eight parcels proposed for change are at:

- 10475 Solomons Island Road
- Camp Convoy Road
- 401 Sweetwater Road
- 750 Sweetwater Road
- 700 Sweetwater Road
- 600 Sweetwater Road
- 10485 S Solomons Island Road
- 10495 Solomons Island Road

Planning & Zoning is distributing the proposed amendments to relevant agencies and neighboring jurisdictions for review for a 60-day comment period. This action complies with the Land Use Article of the Annotated Code of Maryland, which requires notification at least 60 days before the public hearing. Public hearings are scheduled for the following dates:

- Nov. 20, 2024: Planning Commission public hearing
  - Dec. 10, 2024: Board of County Commissioners public hearing
- These dates are subject to change.
