Commissioners Approve Rezoning Over Navy's Objections

By Dick Myers
Staff Writer

The Commissioners of St. Mary's County (CSMC) have approved the rezoning of four parcels in the center of Lexington Park that will allow for the second phase of the redevelopment of the Pax River Village Center (formerly known as Millison Plaza) and the creation of a townhouse residential development on a vacant parking lot behind the shopping center.

The decision on July 15 came on a 3-1 vote, with Commissioner Eric Colvin opposing and Commissioner Scott Ostrow abstaining. And the decision came over the objection of the Navy. The land to be rezoned lies outside the Navy's AICUZ (Air Installation Compatible Use Zone), the area of high noise and accident potential. The Patuxent River NAS Commanding Officer Capt. Douglas Burfield contended that the AICUZ was being reevaluated and could change later this year.

Colvin wanted the decision delayed to give the developer and the Navy more time to try to work things out.

Colvin said, "I like the Atlantic Realty's plan. They've made substantial investment. They're doing great stuff. I like the plan for the townhomes, and I like the plan for the childcare and having YMCA come in and operate that is phenomenal, both for the YMCA and for the community. I think that's great."

"At the end of the day, I struggle that we have a recommendation from the Navy to disapprove this. So, what I would ask for at this point in time is to delay this decision and request from the Navy some clarification and re-looking at this situation."

But Commissioner Mile Hewitt quickly interrupted. He said, "I've lived in this county going on 63 years. I grew up, ran around Lexington Park when it was a vibrant community. And, I still have to say it can be, it needs to be, but the AICUZ put a damper on it. It made it very hard for people to redevelop their properties there."

"The AICUZ is important because we need to have that safety zone. I was on the Board of Education when we moved Carver Elementary to where it is now. The key is, we don't know where a plane will fall. We don't know when this accident can happen, but what's happened to Lexington Park is it needs revitalization."

"Now this Atlantic Realty group is the first people who I've seen come along who have an idea to revitalize this downtown, to bring food resources in, to bring walkable communities in. And what they're doing is going to increase the vitality of that Lexington Park area, in my opinion."

"I don't think it's necessary to revisit this with the Navy. The captain has made his point, and I understand it. I see it. What's unusual for this commissioner is I've never seen a Navy objection to something outside of the AICUZ. If it's inside the AICUZ, I get it. We've seen it with Arby's where they only allowed very limited amount of seating out there. I get it. But you can't have it both ways. You can't have I got the rules in and I got the rules out. And it's been, in my opinion, somewhat of a taking of people's property rights. People buy something, they expect to be able to do something with it. And then someone says, I have an unwritten rule. It's not a law, it's not Comar. I just want you to know that there's a threat that if you do that, I may not be able to do the job I have to do."

Hewitt added, "That is something we have taken very seriously for decades in St. Mary's County. We love the Navy, we love having them there. But in this particular case, the benefit of what this redevelopment does outside of the AICUZ outweighs any potential risk, in my opinion, of what could happen by allowing it."

Hewitt noted, "I'm not in favor of prolonging this. It's time for a decision. These developers have done everything we've asked for them to do. They've crossed every t, dotted every i."

Commissioner Mike Alderson, Jr. said he was concerned about a negative decision dampening expansion in Lexington Park. "Commissioner Hewitt points out the development is outside of the AICUZ. We were elected to support and represent the people of St. Mary's County, not support, not to represent the Navy. The Navy is our partner, and we should work with them as such, but I think that the people of St. Mary's County do come first on this."

Colvin said, "I look forward to seeing Atlantic Realty's development of this, but at the end of the day, we asked the Navy for their input, we invited them to provide input, and we have official Navy input that this is a risk to the health and safety of St. Mary's County residents and the continued mission at NAS Patuxent River. So that's why I cannot support it, but I hope that it is successful."

Hewitt noted, "I think what is important here is we had a joint meeting with the Navy. We hold them twice a year. We had gotten a previous letter from their planning liaison specialist opposing this project. And we asked directly, was the Navy opposed to this project? We had a planning commission meeting coming. And I know the planning commission was wavering on approving or disapproving this plan. Well, at that meeting, they told us they were not opposed to it. It was made clear that there was no opposition.

Now they may have been said to be neutral, whatever it was, but they were not opposed to it. At that time, that planning commission meeting took place, and it was approved 4-3. Now I'm going to say if we'd have known prior to that meeting that the Navy was opposed to it, there's a good chance that planning commission decision would've been reversed in the other direction."

Hewitt added, "It's not fair that we have put the developer through this process and now at the 10th or 11th hour have decided to oppose it. Respectfully. I respect the Navy's position, but I'm going to say, (it's) outside the AICUZ and for that reason, I'll be voting for it."

Prior to the 3-1 vote, Commissioner Ostrow said he had received a number of emails supporting the project. But Land Use and Growth Management Deputy Director Bandy Glenn said they were received passed the deadline to be officially considered.

Self-Storage Facility Approved

Where 7-Eleven Had Been Proposed

Artist's rendering of storage facility

By Dick Myers
Staff Writer

The St. Mary's County Planning Commission approved on July 14 a large self-storage facility at a strategic location near Leonardtown Middle School and across Route 5 from the St. Mary's County Fairgrounds south of Leonardtown.

The 5.14 acre Goddard property had previously been targeted as the location of a 7-Eleven convenience store. But after significant opposition based on traffic, noise and lighting, the planning commission denied the request and it was upheld on appeal.

This time there was also some opposition at the July 14 public hearing, largely from residents of nearby Hanover Run, largely over traffic issues and the impact on their community's stormwater management pond.

The staff report on the 111,400-square-foot self-storage facility (in seven buildings) said "The property that is included within the Mixed-Use Medium Intensity land use area (Leonardtown Development District) as shown on the Land Use Plan incorporated into the County's Comprehensive Plan. The property is located within the Corridor Mixed Use (CMX) zoning district as shown on the County's Official Zoning Map." The report said the use was allowable in the zoning category.

The existing farmhouse on the property will be retained as an office.

The developers' representatives said the use chosen had one of the lowest traffic counts available. But the residents who spoke noted that many of the users would be coming in heavy duty vehicles.

The facility will share an entrance with Big Ed's body repair facility. Its owner said no one had talked to him about the shared use. But after much discussion, it was determined the entrance was owned by the State Highway Administration and they would determine how it was configured.

Developers' attorney Steve Scott said, "We certainly think that this particular use permitted in this zone on this piece of property is a much, much lower impact use on the community and in particular traffic and road concerns."

Consulting Engineer Ken Crause of Soltész, Inc. said, "Our site will control its storm water so that we are not increasing the levels beyond what it is today."

But currently the storm water does run off the property and eventually flows into the pond on Hanover Run.

The developer Randy Wietzel told the planners they were a family business and did an extensive study that determined the need for more self-storage facilities due to the transient nature of base personnel.

He said, "We're not going to hire outside management groups for it. I think it'll benefit the community. We've done a lot of studies to see if it is needed because there are several storage units around and I'm putting a lot of money into this and I'm not a really rich guy. So, the studies looked good."

The property will have a 30-foot planted buffer in addition to the existing tree line. The developer, based on community concerns, will close the facility at 10 p.m. and have sensor lights for the rear units.

During the public hearing Erica Jiang of Hanover Run talked about the community's traffic concerns. "I have a lot of concerns with anything that increases traffic, especially the big box trucks, especially things with trailers, with boats, increasing and stopping short of that intersection because even pulling out of that second entrance of Big Ed's can be difficult."

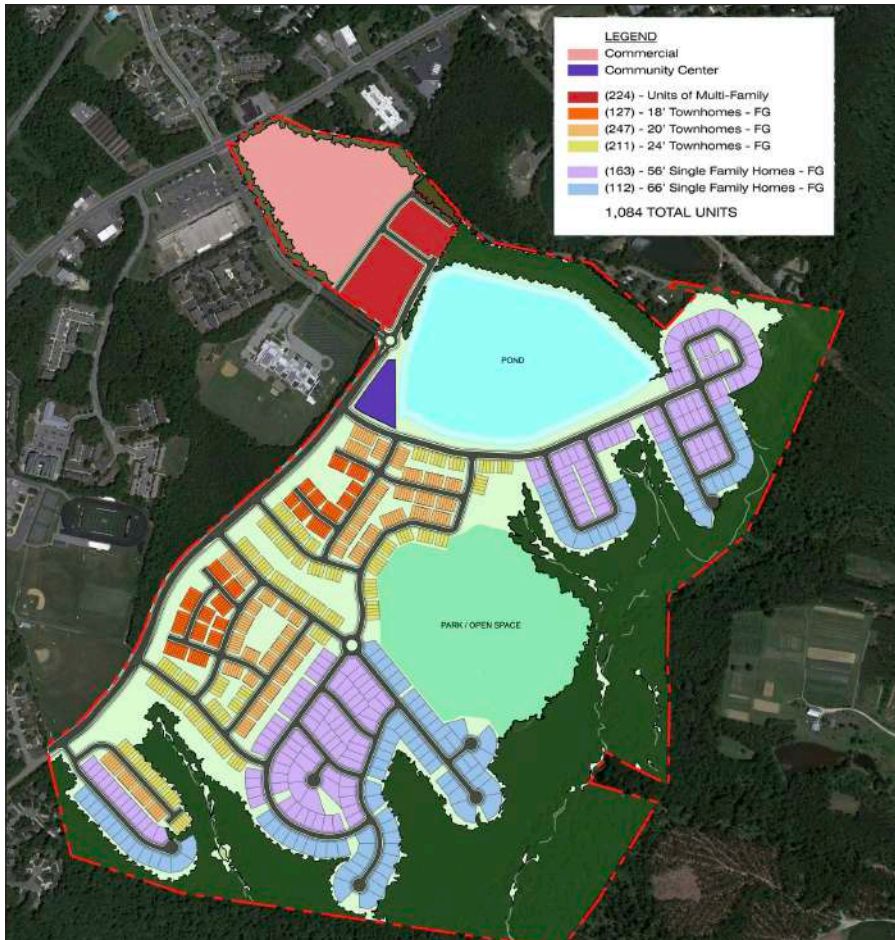

The approval from the planning commission included a deceleration lane if it is accepted by the State Highway Administration.

During the vote, Commission Chairman Howard Thompson said, "In my opinion this property is zoned for this use. They've had different things come before this board and tried to do it. A couple of them were heavy traffic generators. This one's not."

Regarding storm water, Thompson said, "I can understand the neighbors behind are worrying about that. But with the facilities that they have on site and the facilities that we've seen come before this board in the past in different places, water has to stay on site. It's not allowed to run down through the field or anything like that. They have to do their own thing. If they don't, they get fined."

Stewart's Grant Modification Approved

Plan for Stewart's Grant

By Dick Myers
Staff Writer

The Commissioners of St. Mary's County (CSMC) have approved changes to the Stewart's Grant Planned Unit Development (PUD). The July 15 approval came after a public hearing on June 24.

One of the changes reduced the number of authorized dwelling units from 1,122 to 1,084 on the 425.23-acre property with access to Great Mills Road and Route 5.

The development was first proposed in 1992 but this time it is actually going to happen, the current owner claims. The plan is to build 100 units annually for ten years after the preliminary infrastructure work is finished in about 18 months.

At the public hearing, several speakers from Sanner's Lake Sportsmen's Club expressed concerns about the closeness of the development to their 75-year-old shooting range.

Before the commissioners' decision, developer's attorney Richard Page Wyrrough clarified that the buffer between the properties had been significantly expanded to more than is required under the ordinance. A six-foot fence would be erected along the common property line where feasible.

He said, "They (the developer) gave up three lots to accommodate the concerns with respect to the residential area."

A developer's representative met with the sportsmen's club property owner William Sanner after the public hearing. Sanner did not make any comments at the July 15 meeting.

Wyrrough admitted the buffer may not attenuate all of the noise from the firing range. But he said, "There's going to be disclosure of the existence of that gun club and that range as part of the sales documents."

Wyrrough said that Sanner still had some unresolved issues with the commercial section of the development.

"When that portion of it comes up, that we'll get back to him and address his concerns at this point," the attorney said.

In addition to the reduction in density, the changes included reduction of the development's main road from four lanes to two and the reservation of available space in south county public schools for the students to be generated by the project.

Commissioner Mike Hewitt expressed concern about the exits at Great Mills Road and Route 5 being wide enough to accommodate people making right and left turns. He was assured by a developer's representative that they would be wide enough to allow for turns.

Wyrrough concluded by saying, "We believe overall the project impacts will be positive for St. Mary's County, particularly in this district."

Before the vote, Commissioner Mike Alderson, Jr., who attended virtually, said, "My biggest concern is any possible encroachment for Sanders Lakes Sportsmen's Club and the safety of the residents in the proposed Stewart's Grant and the need for more law enforcement that a neighborhood of this size is going to require."

But in the end, as did the other commissioners, he approved the PUD change, paving the way for the project to proceed after more than 30 years of being stalled.

New Building Approved for Pool Company

By Dick Myers
Staff Writer

The St. Mary's County Planning Commission has approved a concept site plan for a new 4,320-square-foot building for Norco Pools on Route 5 in Mechanicsville.

The new building will include retail and administrative office space.

The approval came after a July 14 public hearing.

According to Planner III Sianli Blasco, "Land use area is rural commerce. The zoning is rural commercial limited (RCL). The regulation for RCL zoning district is to accommodate small scale commercial uses, serving localized markets in the county, compatible with the character of rural area devoted to the local market for continued operation and reasonable expansion use. Type 77 retail sales limited is a permitted use in the RCL zone engaged in low volume retail sales."

She said, "A buffer yard along the side and rear property lines adjacent to agricultural use. Staff finding is that design meets (the) requirements."

Gene Burroughs, civil engineering designer with the Little Silences Rest consulting firm, said the new two-story building will replace the current shed used for sales. He said, "The owner intends to do a white metal building with a black metal roof and the coating along the bottom will be a stone veneer."

Burroughs added, "This project actually reduces the amount of impervious area on the project that's there now."

No one spoke at the public hearing and the project was unanimously approved by the planning commission.

Lexington Park Man Sentenced to 50 Years in Prison For Domestic Violence, Stabbing

State's Attorney Jaymi Sterling announced on July 14 that Terek Demaury Ross, 29, of Lexington Park, has been sentenced to life in prison, with 50 years of active incarceration for two counts of attempted first-degree murder.

On August 3, 2024, Ross forcibly broke into his ex-girlfriend's residence and attacked her and her houseguest with a knife. One of the women suffered multiple stab wounds, including a severe injury behind her ear, but managed to escape upstairs to call 911 for help.

The second victim, who was sleeping on the couch, was stabbed multiple times and sustained serious injuries to her right eye and left arm.

Following the vicious attack, Ross stole one of the victims' vehicles and fled the scene. Law enforcement apprehended him later that day in Calvert County. Both victims were airlifted to trauma centers, where they received emergency life-saving medical treatment.

"This was one of the most brutal acts of domestic violence in our community. Such viciousness must be met with the full force of the law, and while no sentence can ever undo the physical and mental harm caused, I hope this 50-year prison sentence provides some sense of justice and safety for the victims and our community," said Sterling.

Detectives Andrew Burgess and David Lawrence and Deputy Alexander Tasciotti of the St. Mary's County Sheriff's Office were the lead investigators.

Senior Assistant State's Attorney Lisa Ridge handled the sentencing hearing on behalf of the citizens of St. Mary's County.

The Honorable Joseph Stanalonis presided over the case.

Long-Time District Director Passes Away

Congressman Steny H. Hoyer (MD-05) released the following statement on July 14 regarding the passing of his District Director, Terrance Taylor:

"This morning, my dear friend, District Director, and trusted advisor, Terrance Taylor, passed away from sudden health complications. His loss is incalculable for his family, as well as for me and my team and the community he served so passionately and effectively.

"My prayers are with Terrance's wife Candace, his son Simon, and his extended family. I grieve with them, as do so many others across our district, state, and country.

"Terrance was taken from us far too early, but he accomplished so much in the time he had. As a member of my district staff for more than two decades, Terrance was the human face of the federal government for so many in Maryland's Fifth District. Whether it was seniors struggling to sort out a problem with their social security check, Veterans trying to access their benefits, or Marylanders working to rebuild a washed-out road, Terrance was the person folks turned to when they didn't know who else to reach out to for help and support. The person on the other end of the line was patient, thoughtful, and deeply connected to communities across Maryland's Fifth District.

"My team and I loved Terrance for his warmth and humor. We admired him for his intellect and leadership. We respected him for his character and commitment to service. And we will remember him for who he was: a great husband, father, brother, uncle, friend, and man. May God bless and keep Terrance Taylor."

"History is an active force for promoting economic development and building strength in our communities," said Gov. Moore. "Projects funded through our Heritage Grant Awards will make Maryland more competitive, support a diverse array of new partnerships, and enrich the lives of thousands of people."

The Heritage Areas Program provides $2.4 billion in annual economic benefit to the state. Maryland Heritage Areas Authority grants generate $319.8 million in state and local taxes while supporting 33,815 full- and part-time jobs annually. Organizations receiving awards include museums, parks, arts organizations, historic sites, schools and other educational institutions, as well as other entities that steward and celebrate the unique cultural and natural resources located within Maryland's 13 state-certified heritage areas. All of Maryland's 23 counties and the City of Baltimore will receive grants.

"The Maryland Heritage Areas Program demonstrates how history, culture, recreation and planning can work together to protect and share state assets and regional identities," said Maryland Department of Planning Secretary and Maryland Heritage Areas Authority Chair Rebecca L. Flora. "I am particularly excited to see that several projects being awarded this year are connected to honoring Maryland's role in the nation's upcoming semiquincentennial. I continue to be in awe of the grantee organizations that dedicate so much time and passion to make sure the full range of our state's diverse stories are being told in authentic and engaging ways. Their efforts create experiences that enhance quality of life, make our towns more livable, and contribute to local economies."

The Maryland Heritage Areas Authority is an independent unit of government chaired by Maryland Department of Planning Secretary Rebecca Flora and is administered by the Maryland Historical Trust. Since 1997, the Maryland Heritage Areas Authority has awarded more than $74 million dollars in grants to hundreds of organizations. These grants have generated over $175 million in non-state matching funds for heritage tourism projects and activities in the state's 13 heritage areas.

Market Money Program Transitions to Department of Ag

The Southern Maryland Agricultural Development Commission (SMADC), a division of the Tri-County Council for Southern Maryland, is pleased to announce the transition of the Maryland Market Money (MMM) program to the Maryland Department of Agriculture, effective July 1.

The move follows legislation passed during the 2025 Maryland General Assembly Legislative Session authorizing the relocation of the program. Operating MMM under the Maryland Farmers Market Nutrition Program (FMNP) within the department's agriculture and seafood marketing program will streamline operations, increase efficiency, and enhance food access for Marylanders. This alignment strengthens the state's capacity to support farmers while improving the shopping experience for residents who rely on nutrition benefit programs.

Program benefits will remain intact, and consumers will see no interruptions to service.

"We are excited to welcome Maryland Market Money to the department," said Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Kevin Atticks. "This transition allows us to better serve farmers, food producers, and Maryland families by consolidating related programs. It reflects our ongoing commitment to growing Maryland's agricultural economy and expanding access to nutritious, locally-grown food."

Maryland Market Money is a statewide initiative that removes economic barriers for food-insecure Marylanders by matching federal nutrition benefits dollar-for-dollar at participating farmers markets, farm stands, and CSAs. The program supports local farmers and food producers with technical assistance, training, marketing, and promotional services.

"As we conclude our role hosting the Maryland Market Program at SMADC and TCCSMD," said SMADC Director Shelby Watson-Hampton, "we are proud of its growth and success. We are confident the Maryland Department of Agriculture will expand its reach, serving more communities and farms across the state. We thank Secretary Atticks and his team for making this transition successful."

Since its launch by the Maryland Farmers Market Association in 2013, MMM has become one of the state's most impactful food access programs. Last year, it served 10,934 Maryland households experiencing food insecurity, distributing $676,428 in matching dollars, supporting more than 60 access points, and benefiting over 700 farmers and food producers.

Letters to the Editor

'Zip It Up, St. Mary's!'

Residents of St. Mary's County, it's time we had the talk. No, not that talk. We need to talk about... the zipper merge.

Yes, that extra lane on Rt. 4 in California—the one you've been side-eyeing with suspicion while white-knuckling the steering wheel—isn't a trick or a trap or a shortcut for the entitled. It's a feature, not a bug. It's called the zipper merge, and it's here to save your commute, your blood pressure, and possibly your soul.

Here's how it works:

Both lanes are meant to be used. Until the very end. That's right, friends—use the full lane. Like a confident, responsible grown-up. And then, like teeth in a zipper (hence the name), one car from the left lane, one from the right lane. Left, right, left, right. It's not rocket science—it's kindergarten line logic.

But what happens now? Someone uses the merge lane correctly, drives all the way to the end like the highway department intended, and suddenly everyone in the left lane morphs into traffic vigilantes. Horns honk. Fingers fly. Windows roll down and voices rise like it's Thunderdome. All because someone did the thing exactly right.

We're looking at you, pickup driver in the left lane who straddles both lanes "to teach people a lesson." You're not Batman. You're just blocking traffic and stressing out the rest of us.

Here's what science (yes, science) says: The zipper merge reduces traffic backups by up to 40%, keeps cars moving, and lowers road rage by at least 3 blood pressure points. When everyone uses both lanes and takes turns merging at the designated point, traffic flows smoother and faster. It's like magic—if magic came with orange barrels and flashing signs.

So next time you're heading toward the Solomons bridge, be the change St. Mary's needs. Embrace the zipper. Merge with purpose. Smile at your fellow drivers. Maybe even throw a thumbs-up instead of a grimace.

Because in the end, we're all just trying to get across that bridge... without losing our minds or our mufflers.

#ZipItStMarys

Drive kind. Merge smarter.

Baltimore Symphony Returns to St. Mary's College

St. Mary's College of Maryland (SMCM) welcomes the return of the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra (BSO), under the baton of Nicholas Hersh, to the Nancy R. & Norton T. Dodge Performing Arts Center on Friday, August 1 at 7 p.m. The concert is open to the public, with tickets available under a "Pay-What-You-Wish" arrangement.

The "Sunset Serenades" performance, representing the St. Mary's County stop under the BSO's "Music for Maryland" series, marks the return of the orchestra to SMCM under the same series as an August 2023 performance. Featuring harpist Bridget Kibbey, the concert will include dance-inspired works from across Europe by Shostakovich, Tailleferre, Dvořák and Strauss.

"When the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra performed here in August of 2023, their exceptional performance affirmed what we knew when we opened the Dodge Performing Arts Center one year before: that we had something truly special—not just for Southern Maryland, but for audiences and world-class musicians everywhere," said Keith Hinton, the Dodge Performing Arts Center's executive director. "Hearing the overwhelmingly positive comments from audience members about the BSO's performance and the acoustics in the hall bolstered that belief; the enthusiastic praise from the BSO musicians themselves and their genuine excitement about the experience of performing here confirmed just how extraordinary our venue is. So, you can imagine my pride and joy when the BSO asked to return on August 1 for what promises to be another unforgettable performance in Southern Maryland's premier music venue."

Tickets are going fast and are only available in advance, online. As always, parking is plentiful and free at the Dodge Performing Arts Center. Accessible seating and parking are also available.

Opening in September 2022, the Nancy R. & Norton T. Dodge Performing Arts Center is Southern Maryland's premier destination for music and the arts, with a 700-seat concert hall and 140-seat recital hall. The recipient of the 2023 AIA Maryland Public Building of the Year Award, the center hosts a variety of musical and performing artists from around the world as well as the College's student performers and community arts partners.

Museums Announce Special Saturday Activities

All ages are invited to enjoy new educational activities while visiting the St. Clement's Island Museum or the Piney Point Lighthouse Museum on the second Saturday of the month throughout the year.

These activities encourage visitors to explore nature and the outdoors through curiosity and play. Modeled loosely after "Forest School" learning styles in Denmark and Sweden, this series encourages discovering nature through hands-on, tactile, "no right or wrong way to play" experiences. Age is not a factor; adults need to connect with nature in relaxing, simple ways, just as much as children do!

Themed activities will be held on the following dates and times. Price is included in regular museum admission. Save the dates and call ahead for info; walk ups are encouraged.

St. Clement's Island Museum (38370 Point Breeze Road in Colton's Point):

- August 9, 2025 (9 a.m. – 11 a.m.): Potomac Palette – Paint the Scenery Using Water from the Potomac River
- October 11, 2025 (10 a.m. – 12 p.m.): Batty for Bats – Build & Decorate Your Own Bat Box while Learning about the Importance of these Flying Mammals

Piney Point Lighthouse Museum (44720 Lighthouse Road in Piney Point):

- September 13, 2025 (4 p.m. – 5 p.m.): Frame the Beach – Make a Beachy Picture Frame
- November 8, 2025 (10 a.m. – 12

p.m.): Deck the Halls – DIY Ornament Workshop

Registration is not required but encouraged so that we can ensure enough materials for participants. Please call the location ahead of time and let our team know which session(s) you would like to attend. All these activities are included in regular museum admission. Play is rain or shine if there are no safety concerns (e.g., heat advisory, heavy winds, lightning, blizzard conditions, etc.). Please also call location for more information on the weather policy.

For more information about these programs, or to set up special educational programs at one of our museum sites for a group, please contact Olivia Flack at Olivia.Flack@stmaryscountymd.gov.

52nd Annual Governor's Cup Yacht Race Scheduled

The Governor's Cup Yacht Race, the oldest premier overnight race on the Chesapeake Bay, will take place August 1-2, 2025. With a 68.6-nautical-mile main race course from Annapolis, three other race routes are available to area sailors, all finishing at St. Mary's College of Maryland (SMCM).

The community is welcome to join in the activities planned on the College's waterfront on Saturday, August 2, featuring food, music and fun for the entire family.

"The Governor's Cup, started by three St. Mary's College students back in the 1970s, has become one of those time-honored traditions for Chesapeake Bay sailors," said Rick Loheed, associate director of waterfront activities for SMCM and race director since 2008. "We're looking forward to as many as 100 boats competing in this year's race, and a lot of fun activities for racers and the community alike."

In addition to the Annapolis leg, racers can depart from Solomons Island in Calvert County, Maryland; run the Potomac Leg starting in Dahlgren, Virginia; or complete the Fishing Bay Leg starting from the Piankatank River off Deltaville, Virginia. Multiple race classes are available.

Non-racers are welcome to kick off the finish activities at the College, beginning at 7 p.m. on Friday evening as the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra (BSO) presents "Summer Serenades" in the Nancy R. & Norton T. Dodge Performing Arts Center on campus. The "pay-what-you-wish" concert is offered as part of the BSO's "Music for Maryland." Tickets are going fast as a similar concert sold out in 2023 and must be booked in advance, online at www.smcm.edu/dodge.

Saturday sees a full day of activities at SMCM's Teddy Turner Waterfront (47498 Trinity Church Rd, St. Mary's City, Maryland), with live music from three bands and performers beginning at 8 a.m. and continuing to 7 p.m. An all-you-can-eat breakfast is served in the Trinity Episcopal Church Parish Hall across the street from 6 a.m.-noon, while food trucks will be on site from noon to 8 p.m. To quench your thirst, a bar service will be available from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m., featuring the event's signature cocktails and other alcoholic and non-alcoholic beverages. Visit the race website at www.smcm.edu/govcup52 for more information on race entry, shoreside amenities and fun activities.

Wanderings of an Aimless Mind

If I Just Close My Eyes

By Shelby Opperman
Contributing Writer

This past Sunday I was missing the early 1960s ritual that my two older brothers and I had of laying down on the living room floor with the Sunday comics spread out in front of us. I feel like there were some Saturday comics too. Though Saturday morning was reserved for all the great, classic cartoons and live action shows like Land of The Lost, HR Pufnstuf and others. What great days those were, especially with the smell of my mother making bacon and eggs or French toast in the background. And of course, after all the comics had been read it was time for the Silly Putty to come out to copy the comics, as well as to make my mother mad when any Silly Putty would get in her wool rug.

Sometimes I can close my eyes, and I am right there on the floor again with my brothers. That was only for a short time since my oldest brother was off to college in the fall of '65, and my other brother ran off and got married when I was 10. I still enjoyed my cartoons and comics time and the mornings during the week reading the back of cereal boxes at breakfast. Or spending a summer day outside reading with the sounds of nature as your music. I wonder if kids still enjoy any of these simple pleasures.

Hearing the sound of the Cicadas outside of the office window takes me back to finding a cozy spot to read while listening to the Cicadas' repeating crescendos. Another simple pleasure. Unfortunately, I am a terrible typist, so I can't keep closing my eyes and trying to type out my remembered feelings. Something like crsnakdhdusmeytsvtem comes out on the screen instead. But closing my eyes to remember all of this from way back when is so peaceful.

However, there are mistakes that can occur when you are trying to keep your eyes closed or to keep a room dark so you can possibly go back to sleep in the middle of the night. I was trying to do just that a few 'middle of the nights' ago when I was searching for the cortisone cream in the bathroom sink cabinet. I have my own door which keeps all the stuff I use regularly like make-up, Visine, cortisone cream all in their own special spots...well...I thought that was the case anyway.

My forearm where an ant had bitten me a few times and the side of my neck where something else had bitten me were itching like crazy, so I stumbled into the dark bathroom and reached for my cortisone cream to ease the itch. I took the tube back to the bedroom and put it on the little table on my side of the bed in case I needed it again. I woke up again later and was still itchy and put some more on but drifted back off to sleep with no relief. I suppose you can guess it wasn't cortisone cream I was smearing on my arm and neck. It was the other cream: Aspercreme Odorless. I would have thought that would have helped and almost wished I had found some of that other cream which begins with Preparation...so at least it might have smoothed out some wrinkles through the night. I've heard that people sometimes use that cream on the wrinkles on their faces. I am just thankful I didn't try the Aspercreme on the wrinkles around my eyes. You probably would have heard me screaming at your house.

To each new day's adventure,
Shelby

Toni Mitchell, 67

It is with deep sadness that we announce the passing of our beloved Toni, who peacefully transitioned on June 13, 2025.

Born Toni Lorene Williams, and later becoming Toni Lorene Mitchell, she was born on December 23, 1957 in Waukegan, Illinois, at St. Therese Hospital. She was 67 years old at the time of her passing in Clinton, Maryland.

In her earliest years, Toni spent much of her time in Waukegan with her grandparents, Vivian Jones Williams and Theodore Williams, where her aunts and uncles treated her like a cherished little sister. She was especially close to her grandparents, often being the cousin who spent the most time with them, time which was cherished by all.

Around the age of seven or eight, Toni moved with her mother, Betty, to the Washington, DC area, where her mother later married James Arthur Mitchell, who lovingly adopted Toni. They made their home in Prince George's County, Maryland where Toni grew up, attending Thomas Johnson Jr. High School before graduating from DuVal Sr. High School. Toni was a good student throughout and after high school, she chose to attend college at Marquette University in Wisconsin, just a car ride away from her beloved grandparents in Waukegan—a choice that reflected her deep connection to them. During college, she returned to Waukegan in the summers, working at Ft. Sheridan Army Base while holding a position during college breaks. She graduated in 1980 with a degree in Speech Pathology.

Toni returned to the DC area after college, later purchasing a home and continuing to build a life filled with warmth, good food, and family. She had a stellar career, and retired as a training administrator at USAID for over 20 years. Toni was a beloved supervisor who required excellence. She supported her colleagues and friends, often taking on the role of professional resume polisher; never hesitating to help others during their job searches. Toni organized toy drives for children during the holidays and always doted on the children in the family, treating each with the same love and attention she showed to everyone she met. She quietly helped many family members and friends with financial and moral support.

Toni loved to cook and was considered one of the best cooks among us, keeping family recipes alive with her personal flair and particularity. She had a knack for cooking which was cultivated early in her life by both grandmothers, her mother and her Aunt Iris. It seemed as if she had attended culinary school—perhaps she did, attending “television university,” as she loved watching cooking shows and trying new recipes. She loved spending time with her cats, each of whom held a special place in her heart: Bridget Sue, Cherchez La Femme, Pierre Pierpont, Tina and Molly, to name a few. She was faithful in attending family events and Zoom calls, which were started during the covid pandemic, and made a point to help gather the family for events and celebrations. Many times, she prepared most of the meals.

Toni lived by the values of sometimes brutal honesty and truth, letting people be who they are, doing things on her own terms. She made people feel loved, seen, valued, and happy. Children always gravitated toward her, often finding themselves nestled in her lap. Her infectious laugh was a gift to everyone around her.

Her love of gaming is legendary. From slots to Spades, to Pitty Pat, to Bid Whist to Scrabble to games at family gatherings, she was highly competitive and engaged and seldom lost at any of them. She engaged happily in family gathering silliness and helped to craft the games we played. She always planned our menus, knowing she did it best, giving each of us our meal assignments. She liked jigsaw puzzles, relaxing on the family boat and hosting and planning regular gatherings for her employees at USAID. She will be remembered as someone you could laugh with and be your whole self with, someone who was not judgmental and who created space for others to feel safe, seen, and loved.

Toni was baptized in 1970 at the Ebenezer United Methodist Church in Lanham. She was deeply spiritual and had a personal relationship with God that guided her faith, quiet strength and kindness throughout her life. She had a strong and feisty side to her personality, and was very vocal in calling out injustice, either to her or others. She made no bones about her strong beliefs; even in her last moments, letting it be known to all that she was ready to “go Home to be with God.”

She is survived by her mother and father, Betty Currie (Robert - deceased) and James A. Mitchell (Brenda Girton-Mitchell); her Aunt Esther Williams Yarborough (Davey), Aunt Gladys Williams (Theodore Williams, Jr., deceased), Uncle Ivy Dennis Johnson (Eloise), Goddaughter Melani Finney Dawodu (Deion), Godson De'jon Howell and a host of sister-cousins, cousins, family and friends who loved her deeply and will continue to carry her legacy.

Family will receive friends for visitation on Friday, July 25, 2025 from 10:00am to 11:00am at People's Congregation United Church of Christ, 4704 13th St. NW Washington, D.C. 20011 with a Funeral Service beginning at 11am. Interment will be private.

Condolences to the family may be made at www.brinsfieldfuneral.com.

Press Release from Maryland State Department of Education

County Students Excel at National Leadership Conference

Calvert County Public Schools (CCPS) is proud to announce that four outstanding students achieved national recognition at the 2025 Future Business Leaders of America (FBLA) National Leadership Conference (NLC), held June 29–July 2 in Anaheim, California.

The event drew thousands of student competitors from across the United States to showcase their business knowledge, leadership skills, and career readiness in one of the premier student conferences in the country.

Representing Calvert County and the state of Maryland, the following students earned top honors:

- Ada Marciniak
Northern High School
5th place in the nation in Business Law
- Ihnaya Mason
Huntingtown High School
5th place in the nation in Computer Problem Solving
- Amaria Jenkins
Huntingtown High School
7th place in the nation in Organizational Leadership
- Gentry Bowie
Northern High School
Honored as Maryland's "Who's Who in FBLA" recipient

The National Leadership Conference provides FBLA members with the opportunity to demonstrate their academic and career skills through competitive events, network with peers from across the nation, and participate in professional development workshops. This year's event, held in Anaheim, emphasized innovation, global awareness, and leadership in the modern business world.

For the students, the experience extended far beyond competition. "Walking across that stage, especially as the only woman, is surely an experience I'll never forget," said Ihnaya Mason, reflecting on the significance of her achievement.

Amaria Jenkins spoke to the personal and professional growth sparked by preparing for and attending the event: "The experience showed me that FBLA is so much bigger than our chapter or school. The weeks leading up to the NLC helped improve my study habits and inspired me to dream big - walking that stage in front of thousands of people and being a national winner. Meeting new people and feeling the energy was such an amazing opportunity. I cannot wait for next year!"

Lynne Gillis, FBLA advisor at Huntingtown High School, emphasized the dedication behind these accomplishments: "Success in FBLA isn't just about competition - it's about commitment. These students turned hard work and determination into a national championship win."

FBLA is one of the nation's leading Career and Technical Student Organizations, dedicated to preparing students for careers in business, entrepreneurship, and leadership. As part of Career and Technical Education (CTE) in Calvert County Public Schools, FBLA gives students the chance to apply classroom learning in real-world settings, gain leadership experience, and compete on local, state, and national levels.

Residents Encouraged to Take Part in Buy Local Challenge

Calvert County residents are encouraged to support local farmers, waterman and artisans by participating in the Maryland Buy Local Challenge, taking place during Buy Local Week, from Thursday, July 17, through Sunday, July 27.

Each year, Calvert County joins with State of Maryland and the Southern Maryland Agricultural Development Commission for the Buy Local Challenge, asking Marylanders to pledge to eat at least one locally grown or produced item every day for a week. This simple commitment helps strengthen our agricultural community and supports long-term sustainability.

"We're proud to highlight the amazing variety of products our local farmers, watermen, and artisans provide," said Economic Development Director Julie Oberg. "Supporting local agriculture strengthens our economy, sustains family businesses and builds meaningful connections between consumers and the people who produce their food. When we choose to buy local, we help preserve the character and heritage that make our region so special."

Buying local food is not only fresher and more nutritious, but also better for the environment and the local economy. Supporting local farms helps promote cleaner air and water, reduces the carbon footprint from transportation and keeps dollars in the local community. If every Maryland household spent just $12 a week on local farm products for eight weeks, it would return more than $200 million to the state's farming economy.

There are many ways to participate in the annual statewide challenge. The Department of Economic Development suggests adding one or two local items a day to your meals – fresh eggs and bacon with breakfast, a snack of local fruit or veggies, some Chesapeake Bay blue crabs caught by a local waterman, complemented by your favorite local beer or wine. Brighten your table with handmade candles crafted with locally harvested beeswax, serving boards and spoons made from Maryland-grown woods or a bouquet of locally grown flowers.

The Calvert County Farmers Markets offer a great and convenient opportunity to support local agriculture and celebrate Buy Local Week.

The 2025 market season:

- Tuesdays in Prince Frederick at CalvertHealth Medical Center back parking lot
130 Hospital Road
2:30–5:30 p.m.
April 29 to November 25
Farmers Market Association market
- Thursdays in Dunkirk at the entrance of Dunkirk District Park
10750 Southern Maryland Blvd.
2:30–5:30 p.m.
May 22 to August 28
Farmers Market Association market
- Saturdays in North Beach at the North Beach Senior Center parking lot 9010 Chesapeake Ave.
8–11:30 a.m.
April 19 to October 25
Town of North Beach municipal market

Join us for the Buy Local Challenge Celebration Event on Monday, July 28, from 5–8 p.m., rain or shine, at Tettimers' Produce (3305 St. Leonard Road, in Benedict). This family-friendly event will feature more than 35 vendors in a farmers' market-style setting where visitors can shop for farm-raised meats and dairy, fresh produce, flowers, oysters, baked goods, jams, handmade soaps and local arts and crafts. Maryland wineries, breweries and distilleries will also offer tastings.

Tickets are $5, and children age 6 and under are admitted free. Tickets are available online until 4 p.m. Monday, July 28. Each ticket includes a complimentary insulated shopping tote with ice, entry into a free raffle, carriage rides with the Suttler Post Farm Clydesdales, pony rides with Mary's Go Round and access to the Rolling Acres Farm petting pen. Public Hearing Held on Ethics Changes

By Dick Myers
Staff Writer

It's been six years since former county commissioner Kelly McConkey voted to include land he owned into the Huntingtown Town Center. That action led a small group of county citizens to try to overturn the decision and prevent such actions from ever happening again.

The group, called Calvert Citizens United, took their ethics complaint to local and state courts and eventually to Maryland highest court. That court urged them to seek redress through legislative action, which in turn led to the passage of House Bill 834 in the 2024 Maryland General Assembly.

The Calvert County Ethics Commission and the county commissioners have been working since then to comply with the provisions of the law, requiring the county commissioners to act on an ethics complaint against one of their own members.

That path led to a July 15 public hearing on a proposed change in the county's ethics law. By then what started out as highly controversial seems to have turned into something routine. Only one person spoke, and that was in favor of the proposal.

Calvert County Constituent Services Specialist Emily Shrieve gave the commissioners the background at the beginning of the hearing. She said, "On June 17, 2025, the Calvert County Ethics Commission (CCEC) held a work session with the Board of County Commissioners (BOCC) regarding the implementation of Ch. 370 Laws of Maryland, 2024 (House Bill 834), which requires the CCEC to publicly disclose recommendations to expel a commissioner and authorizes the governing body to remove county elected officials for local and state conflict of interest violations based on the CCEC's public recommendation. The BOCC directed the CCEC to move forward with a public hearing to consider and receive comments regarding amendments to Chapter 41 (Ethics) of the Calvert County Code of Ordinances to implement Maryland law."

She went on to say, "The Calvert County Ethics Commission recommend amending Chapter 41 of the Calvert County Code of Ordinances to implement Ch. 370 Laws of

Susan Dzurec

Maryland, 2024." There was no projected cost to implementing the change.

The only speaker at the hearing was Susan Dzurec, one of the founders of Calvert Citizens United, who described herself as a former member.

Dzurec said, "There's a lot of personal stuff in this though. My earrings say all things are possible when you have hope. The oyster shell on my necklace is in honor of Senator Bernie Fowler, who advised Calvert Citizens United up until the time of his death. His motto was 'Never, never, never give up.' "My hope is that moving forward with the enactment of House Bill 834 into the ethics code will decrease the chances of our elected officials from engaging in the unethical behavior that brought us here. I appreciate that finally, this has come to public hearing. I've aged significantly during this process. It started in 2019. This is when this journey began. Please, let's get this done so that I know our time was not spent unwisely," she concluded.

The commissioners will keep the record open for at least 10 days before making a decision.

Agencies Forge Agreement on Mental Health Crisis Response

By Dick Myers
Staff Writer

The Calvert County Board of County Commissioners has approved a landmark agreement by several county agencies that affects the way that help is dispatched in mental health or behavioral health crisis.

Emergency Services Director Dave McDowell explained at the July 15 BOCC meeting, “A 911 specialist processed that call and we would dispatch police or fires or EMS. Although we would dispatch them, they may not be the most appropriate resource for that individual. There have been many instances throughout the country where that interaction has turned negative because they weren’t the most appropriate resource. So, by bringing in 988 (Suicide Prevention Hotline), this allows 911 to transfer those calls. And these are low acuity calls. We’re not talking calls that definitely need a police or fire or EMS response. These are the low acuity calls where maybe they’re better off speaking to somebody over the phone or getting the mobile crisis team where they have clinicians on their response unit there to talk with that person instead of police responding and tying up their resources where they may need to be available for an actual police emergency. So that is the intent of this initiative.”

Commissioner Mike Hart said, “I’m glad you guys are doing this. We talk about this a lot that society has not been equipped for this because (in) the traditional way of handling things is you would send someone out to the house, and they might not be the right one. Suicide has gotten so prevalent.”

Hart added, “I never thought I would know as many people as I do who have committed suicide and you just never knew what they had going on inside.”

McDowell said, “There’s resources out there, but 911 professionals may not know what those resources are. So, by connecting them to the right person, they can make sure they get those resources, and they can follow up and make sure they get the most appropriate help at the right time.”

Commissioner Catherine Grasso observed they had met recently with the county health officer and “our big conversation both times was mental health and how do we address it and how do we help people. This is imperative for our county and thank you both for being proactive.”

Commissioner Vice President Todd Ireland asked Communications Chief Stanley Harris, “When we’re going through the phone calls to make sure that it’s not a safety issue with just sending the mobile crisis team? Or should a deputy go with them?”

Harris said, “It’s called Emergency Medical Dispatch. The protocols we use to process 911 calls through the questioning that triages the call based on what the caller tells us. So, we’ve identified codes in that protocol where if there are high acuity codes, it’s getting police, fire, and it may get an MCT response dispatched initially as well, but we’re sending police to secure because maybe there’s a weapon involved. These are the low acuity calls where maybe I was thinking about committing suicide last week. I have no intention of doing it now, but I want to talk to somebody. We’re not trained to do that at 911 and do we really need to tie up a police resource to go talk to somebody for that? So, we’re able to transfer them to 988, where they can talk to a mental health professional and they can provide those resources and talk to them. We have in the MOA (Memorandum of Agreement) triggers where if they get to 988 and then it escalates. Now I went and gotten a weapon and I’m seriously considering it, they transfer it back to us and now we can send police on that response along with mobile crisis.”

Director of the Local Behavioral Health Authority Andrea McDonald-Fingland thanked McDowell and Jarris “for their not just cooperation, but advocacy in this initiative. When I called or emailed Stanley, a year and a half ago when we started this initiative, I wasn’t necessarily expecting everybody to jump on the bandwagon right away, but Stanley was there like, what do we need to do?”

She said, “We are one of the first counties in Maryland to execute this MOA.”

McDonald-Fingland said, “Here in Calvert, there was no pushback. Everybody was so ready to put this initiative into place.”

She added, “It also is financially responsible of us to be dedicating the resources of our fire, EMS, and Sheriff’s office and MSP to emergencies where there’s a dangerous aspect to it. And so, the emergencies or the crises that are occurring where the behavioral health is involved, but no one’s in immediate danger, we can let the mental health and peer support professionals provide their interventions.”

Director for Behavioral Health Diversion at Community Crisis Services, Inc. Adriana Faso said, “We are the designated contact center for 988 in Southern Maryland. So, my team is going to be working directly with the police department to deescalate and kind of divert calls from them back to the community resources.”

“The biggest thing at 988,” she said, “is that we do have trained specialists that are there to not only deescalate and provide emotional support, but also to redirect them back to community resources. A lot of people don’t know what they don’t know. And so, we just want to make that easy for them.”

Clinical Supervisor for Calvert Crisis Response Regina Turnbull said, “The services that we provide at Calvert Crisis Response are a mobile response team, which can dispatch out into the community, either through the public safety system or through self-dispatch, or through 988, we can go out to the community where people are having crisis of mental health or behavioral health crisis, or who may be experiencing it vicariously through somebody else.”

The Calvert County Board of County Commissioners announces the appointment of Stephen McGibbon as deputy county administrator, effective Aug. 4.

McGibbon brings more than 30 years of experience in financial oversight, risk management and government operations. Most recently, he served as director of finance for Prince George’s County Government, where he led efforts to manage a multibillion-dollar debt portfolio, supervised key divisions including treasury and accounting and developed programs to strengthen financial compliance and internal controls.

In his new role, McGibbon will support the county administrator in overseeing daily operations, implementing strategic initiatives and ensuring the effectiveness and accountability of government services. He will also lead efforts to review and evaluate performance measures across key agencies to promote continuous improvement and transparency.

“We are excited to welcome Stephen to Calvert County,” said County Administrator Linda Turner. “His deep experience in finance, strategic planning and executive leadership will be a tremendous asset as we continue working to deliver efficient, responsive services to our residents.”

“I am thrilled to have the opportunity to serve the citizens of Calvert County, execute the vision of the Board of County Commissioners and provide strong, reliable, high-quality support to the county administrator,” McGibbon said. “Throughout my career, I’ve been committed to public service and ensuring that government works effectively for the people. I look forward to working alongside our talented county team to support that mission.”

McGibbon’s career includes leadership roles in both local government and the federal sector. He has played a key role in policy development, process improvement and legislative impact analysis. He also served McGibbon holds a Bachelor of Business Administration in accounting from Howard University and is a certified public accountant (CPA), certified internal auditor (CIA) and certified information systems auditor (CISA). He is a member of the Government Finance Officers Association, the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants, and other professional organizations. He is also an alum of Leadership Greater Washington and volunteers his time with nonprofit boards.

Veteran Educator Selected as Acting Superintendent

Interim Superintendent will be Appointed Next Month

By Dick Myers
Staff Writer

With Calvert County Superintendent of Schools Dr. Andraé Townsel headed to Hartford, Ct. to lead their school system, a veteran local educator has been selected to be acting superintendent. Dr. Susan Johnson will be leading the school system at least until the next school board meeting in August. The board has not yet selected an interim superintendent. School Board President Jana Post said that process has to be done in public at a meeting. Presumably, the selection process for a new superintendent will be announced at that meeting.

Dr. Johnson has been with Calvert County Public Schools for 34 years. She has served at just about every available level within the school system. She has been a teacher, assistant principal, and principal as well as Director of Secondary School Improvement, Chief Academic Officer and most recently Chief Operations Officer.

After graduating from Old Dominion University in Richmond, Johnson taught for eight years before being named Assistant Principal at Northern Middle School and a year later as the school's principal. She then became principal at Calvert High School before transitioning to central office positions.

The Eastern Shore native (Somerset County) told the County Times in a 2022 interview, "I wasn't sure what I wanted to do when I graduated from high school and was moving toward physical therapy when I was a freshman in college. My mom was a nurse and my dad an educator, so it seemed like a good fit. I took a survey course in special education and was fascinated by the brain research regarding students with disabilities and I was hooked. I switched my major and graduated with a degree in special education with an emphasis on learning disabilities."

In her most recent roles, she has been a regular presenter at school board meetings.
