Government Shutdown Delays Planning Commission Hearing

Artist's renderings of Bradleybrooke

By Dick Myers
Staff Writer

The planning commission public hearing for a major subdivision on Willows Road has been delayed due to the government shutdown, to give the Navy time to assemble a response.

The proposal called Bradleybrooke consists of 150 townhouse units and 73 detached single-family dwelling lots.

At the Nov. 10 planning commission meeting, developer's Attorney Chris Longmore asked for a one-week delay to allow for all agency comments to be received.

But NAS Patuxent River Commanding Officer Capt. Maek Zenatis didn't think that would give the Navy enough time considering the government shutdown.

"We would like to have a full team present to provide thorough input," he wrote.

Over Longmore's objections, the commission unanimously agreed to delay the hearing until Dec. 8. But Planning Commission Chairman Howard Thompson said, "If we got into a situation where this were months and months and months and months, we'd probably have some due process concerns. I don't believe we're there yet."

Thompson told Longmore, "If the Navy isn't ready at that point, we'll do whatever we can to make it easier on you."

Thompson did note, "They've had furloughs and people out, and it is a few weeks. I don't think it's outlandish. It's not like it's months and months and months. That's my opinion."

Longmore argued, "They (the developer) have contractual obligations and other obligations to go forward. A month's delay, which is what this would amount to, is significant to them. I don't recall any continuance requests like this ever coming in before on an application from the Navy or really any other agency."

But the commission unanimously went along with the delay.

Longmore insisted, "This project is not in the AICUZ (Air Installation Compatible Use Zone) ...and it's not within the noise contour shown on the county noise contour map. So, this project is completely outside of both of everything the county has adopted to address the AICUZ."

According to the staff report, "This project consists of 76.26 acres, located in Lexington Park Development District... The site is located on property that is included within the Residential Low Density Land Use and Residential Low Density (RL) zoning district. A portion of the property (11.85 acres more or less) is located in the Accident Potential Zone-II (APZ-II) zoning overlay."

Democrat Files for District 29 Senate Seat

Chuck Borges has filed his candidacy as a Democrat for the District 29 (St. Mary's/Calvert) Maryland Senate seat currently held by Republican Jack Bailey, who has filed for re-election.

Borges issued the following statement: "I'm a retired Naval officer, decorated combat veteran, and former civil servant at agencies including the CDC and Social Security. I spent nearly 23 years in the Navy and much of the past five years in civil service in the technology sector.

"I have dedicated my life to either defending the public or finding solutions to its most pressing problems, and I'm writing to you to announce my candidacy for the Maryland District 29 State Senate seat.

"My father was an Air Force enlisted soldier turned FAA Air Traffic Controller, so I experienced first-hand how government decisions can impact a family's livelihood during the PATCO strike in 1981. We moved to rural upstate New York following the strike due to the lower cost of living, and we learned hard lessons about affordability and community.

"I went to MIT on a Navy ROTC scholarship, was on deployment during 9/11, and was awarded a 'Combat V' for individual action in Iraq.

"I moved to Southern Maryland in 2005 to attend Test Pilot's School and (apart from military contingencies) have made this area my home here ever since.

"Our region's rural entrepreneurship brings back fond memories of my roots, while our tech savvy shows an area poised to lead the nation in new technology areas.

"After Test Pilot's School, I served as NAVAIR's Chief Data Officer and worked to keep our sailors safe using data innovation. I started my civil service career as a Presidential Innovation Fellow at the CDC during COVID, working to help agencies respond faster to public health challenges. In my last civil service job, I stood up to DOGE to protect the public's most sensitive data. Protecting the public is our most sacred trust.

"Now I'm looking forward to drawing on my experiences in modern technology and innovation to accelerate solutions that provide affordable housing, reduce medical costs, improve outcomes for our agricultural sector, protect our biodiversity, and improve food security.

"With the challenges our country faces today, we need strong, vibrant, and sustainable community growth to thrive. This means ensuring that we provide our agricultural community with the tools and resources they need to be successful, that our residents have training and job prospects to provide them security and safety, and that we understand how to attract new industry and jobs to the region.

"As the State Senator representing St. Mary's and southern Calvert County, I will champion state policies that incentivize local sustainability and growth while protecting our agricultural development and biodiversity.

"Service to my country, making an impact in the lives of others, and ensuring everyone has equitable opportunities to learn, live, and grow have been the guiding principles of my life. I am honored to have the opportunity to earn your vote, and I hope to be able to learn from each of you over the course of this campaign. Together we can build policies that strengthen and support us all."

G&H Jewelers Marks 60th Anniversary as a Family Institution

By Tim Flaherty
Contributing Writer

In 1965, James Franklin “Frankie” Harris Sr., along with his wife, Bettie Lou, opened a small jewelry shop they called Harris Jewelers in downtown Leonardtown. This year, that same business, now known as G&H Jewelers & Gemologists, turned 60 years old.

A few years after starting Harris Jewelers, Frankie asked his good friend, Dickie Gatton, to join the business, which was renamed G&H Jewelers. The two men, along with Betty Lou and Dickie’s wife, Hilda Mae, operated their store at several different locations in St. Mary’s County.

“Sixty years later,” mused current owner, Joan Harris, “I’m still amazed at how this little hometown store became part of so many love stories.”

What seems to be even more amazing than all the engagement and wedding rings that have come from G&H, is that ownership has remained within the same family. Joan Harris is the daughter-in-law of the founders.

“Incredibly,” Joan said, “Frankie Sr. and Dickie ran it for 28 years. I’ve been running it now for 32 and counting.

“I guess that makes me officially the veteran of the family jewelry trade,” she added with a laugh.

Joan’s late husband, Frank Jr., began working at G&H as a teenager. In 1989, Joan began there, and the couple bought out Frank’s parents and the Gattons in 1993. It was Joan and Frank who ran the show from then on.

“He (Frank Jr.) was the front of the house, I was behind the scenes,” she said. “We were together 24 hours a day, seven days a week. It’s a miracle we didn’t drive each other crazy, but we made a great team.”

“After Frank passed away in 2014,” Joan said, “I made it my mission to honor both his and his father’s legacy by keeping G&H thriving.”

Joan and Frank’s sons, David and Mathew, along with longtime employee Callie Wobbleton, who Joan calls their “adopted daughter,” are carrying the torch as the third generation operating G&H.

“My succession plan is in its beginning stages,” Joan said, “so I am confident that this little family business has a bright future.”

Over the years, G&H sometimes operated with multiple locations before the family realized something important: “It just made sense to bring all of us together in one place,” Joan said. “Each of us specializes in something different, and customers love having all that expertise under one roof.”

That all-in-one approach found its permanent home in 1995, after Joan attended a base realignment meeting in Solomons. “They were talking about all the growth coming to Pax River,” she recalled. “I called Frank and said, ‘Buy some property as soon as you can between Route 4 and the Navy base!’ He didn’t hesitate and jumped right on it. It was our best decision yet, and we’ve been right here on Route 235 in California ever since.”

Frank Harris, Jr. and his wife, Joan, acquired the property where G&H Jewelers now stands on Route 235 in California in 1995. Frank Harris’ parents started the business in 1965 in Leonardtown.

“Pop used to say, ‘It’s harder to make a business fail than it is to succeed, if you just do the right things and treat the customers like family,’” Joan Harris (second from right) remembers advice she received from her late father-in-law, Frankie Harris, the founder of G&H Jewelers. “I can still hear him saying it when I’m trying to teach the boys now.” With Joan are her sons David (left) and Mathew (right), and store manager and longtime employee Callie Wobbleton.

These days, a typical afternoon at G&H might find a customer buying a diamond tennis bracelet and getting an appraisal from Callie, with another designing a new ring with Mat, and still another discussing some investment coins with David. “It just works,” Joan said earnestly.

“We’ve always believed jewelry is personal,” Joan said. “It marks milestones: engagements, anniversaries, memories, so we take the time to listen. We treat people like friends, not transactions.”

Just how long have Joan’s sons been involved with G&H Jewelers?

“Well, it depends on your definition of involved,” Joan said with a laugh. “David’s been involved since he was three, and Mathew since birth. Back when Frank and I had no employees, they’d nap in the back or ‘help’ by wiping their fingerprints off the glass.”

“Eventually,” she said, “they figured out there was supposed to be pay involved in all that ‘helping out.’ Officially, David’s been on the payroll for 22 years and Mat for 19, but they’ve really been part of G&H their whole lives.”

Joan’s son, Mathew leads the CAD (computer-aided design) team at G&H and creates custom work. “I love the creativity,” he said. “Christmas shopping for my wife is basically just a lunch break.”

Mathew’s brother, David, runs the gold and silver bullion side of the business. “Working in a family business means a few good-natured debates about who does the most,” said David, “but that’s part of the fun!”

Callie, the aforementioned “adopted daughter,” serves as the store’s lead appraiser and is also the store manager. “She keeps everything organized and on track, Joan said. “She’s the calm in our beautiful chaos.”

Mat, David, Callie, and Joan, are all certified gemologists

Joan’s leadership rules for the next generation feature a mix of humor and seriousness.

“Rule number one: Don’t kill each other,” she said. “Family businesses mean long hours and strong opinions, so patience and a good sense of humor is key.

“I’ve always told them, ‘Your actions are your reputation.’ Lead by example, treat people right, keep learning, seek new innovations, and take pride in your work. That’s what built this place and what keeps it going.

Sheriff's Office Transitioning to New Alert and Tip System

The St. Mary's County Sheriff's Office is transitioning to a new alert and tip submission platform: tip411, which will replace the Nixle system currently in use.

Nixle alerts will end on Nov. 12 and current subscribers will not automatically transfer to the new system. To continue receiving verified alerts directly from the Sheriff's Office, residents must sign up for tip411.

With the new system, the Sheriff's Office will be able to send real-time, verified alerts about critical incidents, missing people, road closures, traffic hazards, and community safety information directly to the public.

Residents can receive these alerts by:

Email or text by creating an account at www.FirstSheriff.com/tips or by

Smartphone app by downloading the free "SMCSO" app from the Google Play Store or Apple App Store

In addition to receiving alerts, tip411 gives the public several convenient and anonymous ways to share information with the Sheriff's Office:

- Send a text to 847411 starting with "SMCSO," add a space, and then your message
- Online: Submit a tip through the Sheriff's Office website at www.FirstSheriff.com/tips

FirstSheriff.com/tips

- App: Send a tip directly through the SMCSO app

For those who prefer to make a phone call, tips can also be shared through the Crime Solvers line at 301-475-3333.

When a tip is sent through text or the app, deputies can respond to ask follow-up questions while maintaining the complete anonymity of the conversation. The system automatically removes all identifying information before messages are received, ensuring no one can see who sent the tip.

"We know the public is one of our greatest law enforcement resources. Together, we can make St. Mary's County an even safer place to live, work, and visit," said Sheriff Steve Hall. "tip411 allows us to share verified, timely alerts while giving residents a safe and secure way to help prevent and solve crime."

The St. Mary's County Sheriff's Office remains committed to transparency, collaboration, and innovation. The launch of tip411 represents the next step in providing trusted, direct communication between the Sheriff's Office and the community.

All 11 Businesses Pass Compliance Checks

On October 22, 2025, the St. Mary's County Sheriff's Office Alcohol Enforcement Unit conducted a series of alcohol compliance checks at licensed establishments throughout the county.

The operation involved the use of a 20-year-old Confidential Informant (CI) from the Sheriff's Office. The CI, dressed in jeans and a sweatshirt, was instructed to enter restaurants and stores and attempt to purchase an alcoholic beverage to test compliance with state alcohol laws.

The CI was accompanied by Corporal Kristi Nelson of the Sheriff's Office Special Operations Division. Cpl. Nelson, also dressed in civilian attire, observed all transactions.

A total of 11 businesses were visited during the operation, and all 11 successfully passed by requesting identification and refusing the sale of alcohol to the underage CI.

The following establishments were visited:

- 2000 Liquors 21800 N. Shangri-La, #19, Lexington Park
- Action Lounge and Billiards 25470

- Point Lookout Road, Leonardtown
- Applebee's Neighborhood Grill & Bar 45480 Miramar Way, California

Natural Resources Police Report Activity

Officers retrieved an illegal monofilament gillnet and over 50 fish taken from the waters of the Potomac in St. Mary's County. Photo acquired via NRP investigation.

Reports just released by the Maryland Natural Resources Police report activity in St. Mary's River and Piney Point.

On May 26, Maryland Natural Resources Police officers conducting fisheries checks identified two men fishing on the St. Mary's River, when one of the men threw an object in the water.

Officers observed several dead croaker floating in the water, and found 18 more in the boat's cooler.

Between the fish thrown overboard and stored inside the cooler, 28 fish were recovered, all of which were under the legal size of 9 inches.

Both men – a 41-year-old Mount Rainier man and a 29-year-old Annandale, Va., man – were charged with possession of undersized croaker measuring less than 9 inches (11 or more fish), which carries a maximum offense of $1,000, and $2,000 and/or one-year imprisonment for a second offense.

On May 17, Maryland Natural Resources Police officers responded to a call for a boater who had snagged an illegal gill net with the boat's motor in the area of the Piney Point petroleum station on the Potomac River in St. Mary's County.

Officers determined the gill net belonged to two men on a jon boat in Piney Point Creek who were seen with additional gill nets on board. Later officers found 41 striped bass (11 of which were outside the legal size limit of 19-24 inches), eight undersized croaker, and several spot on board with cuts and marks consistent with being caught in a gill net.

The men – an 18-year-old and a 26-year-old, both of Riverdale Park – were issued a bevy of charges including fishing without a license, use of a monofilament gill net, possession of illegal sized striped bass, possession of over the limit striped bass, possession of undersized croaker, and several additional boating safety violations.

Officers found that one of the men was wanted for another crime, and he was arrested and transported. Both men face maximum fines of $5,000.

USMSM Hosts Engineering Night

Students across Southern Maryland participated in Night of Engineering to learn about educational pathways and tour the USMSM SMART Building.

More than 130 Southern Maryland students with sights on an engineering career learned about pathways and partnerships to reach their goals during Night of Engineering on Oct. 29.

Night of Engineering introduces middle school, high school, and college students to the associate of science degree programs at the College of Southern Maryland (CSM), transfer pathways to four-year bachelor's degrees with the University System of Maryland at Southern Maryland (USMSM), and engineering career opportunities in the region.

Valeria Corona is a second-year electrical engineering student at CSM. Corona is one of several students who took the podium to share their experience in the Engineering Transfer Recruitment Opportunity (ENTRY) program which allows students who graduate from CSM associate of science programs to transfer with junior status to a mechanical or electrical engineering bachelor's program at USMSM.

"College is an investment. You want to minimize the input and maximize what you get out of it," said Corona. "As a real engineer you should recognize what you can do to set yourself up for future success and maximize the opportunities around you."

This event, held at the USMSM Southern Maryland Autonomous Research and Technology (SMART) Building in St.

Mary's County, was hosted by the Southern Maryland Engineering Partnership, a program which allows mechanical and electrical engineering CSM graduates to transfer to the University of Maryland's A. James Clark School of Engineering at the USMSM in California. Through this partnership, students can intern with the Naval Air Warfare Center Aircraft Division (NAWCAD), often leading to full-time employment.

CSM faculty and staff worked closely with USMSM to ensure courses allow a seamless transition to the four-year program. CSM President Dr. Yolanda Wilson shared how students who begin their higher education journey at CSM are set up to succeed in their next steps.

"When students start at CSM, they benefit from smaller class sizes, saving money and resources and funds, and staying close to home where support is within reach," Dr. Wilson said. "We are designed to help you reach your goals. Our purpose, our intent, and our mission, is to make sure every student walks across that stage."

USMSM Executive Director Dr. Dale Nesbary spoke to students about the need for skilled engineers in Southern Maryland. He said the faculty at these institutions recognize this need and are equipped with the skills and knowledge to prepare students to fill high-demand positions.

"You're next to the one of the largest naval air stations in the country, and that requires extreme talent to help them do what they need to do, and that's you," Nesbary said. "So listen, learn, and then contribute."

Night of Engineering participants heard inspiring testimony from Grady Klaas, 2025 USMSM graduate with a Bachelor of Science degree in Mechanical Engineering and a product of the transfer program. Klaas earned his Associate of Engineering Science degree from CSM.

Klaas encouraged the next generation of engineers to join this program, which he said was less of a financial burden than other degree programs, allowed him to stay local, and take advantage of the close ties with Naval Air Warfare Center Aircraft Division (NAWCAD) and fulfill a lifelong dream of becoming a civil engineer.

"During lessons we were exposed to the challenges that civilian engineers face every day. This didn't just sharpen my academic skills, it prepped me for my career in ways that other programs couldn't," Klaas said. "If you're passionate about engineering and want an affordable, practical path that keeps you connected to industry leaders, USMSM is the place."

Attendees toured the state-of-the-art SMART Building and viewed demonstrations of the research and technology labs.

Night of Engineering is hosted each spring and fall. Visit the CSM Engineering webpage for more information on the partnership and degree programs.

MEET SALLY

Hi, I'm Sally, Queen of the Windowsill & Long-Term Lounge Champion! I'm a 1.5-year-old kitty who has spent over 160 days at the care center perfecting her craft of sunbathing and bird-watching from the windowsill. I'm a soft-as-a-cloud sweetheart who loves other cats, cozy naps, and gazing dramatically out the window like I'm in a music video. My fur? Softer than your favorite blanket! My vibe? Chill, elegant, slightly independent house princess. After 160+ days of waiting, I'm more than ready to trade my shelter window for a furever home view! Adoption hours are Mon-Fri 11am-4pm and Sat 10am-3pm.

To see more of my amazing friends also available for adoption, "like" us on Facebook @ Charles County Animal Care Center or at <https://www.charlescountymd.gov/services/animal-care-control/animal-care-center>

MEET AVA

This gorgeous 5-year-old Lab mix is as sweet as she is chatty — she loves to "talk" and share her opinions. Ava is a total people-lover, but she has a special soft spot for the fellas! She does well with most dogs and enjoys playtime, though her confident personality can come off a little bossy. Ava is also okay with cats and is learning great manners in her foster home. She's working on sharing food and treats with other animals — she's a little protective of her goodies sometimes, but she's improving every day. If you're looking for a loyal companion with lots of love (and personality!) to give, Ava might just be your perfect match.

If you are interested in meeting with Ava or learning more about her please contact Animal Relief Fund (ARF) at 301-866-0303 or visit www.animalreliefund.org

Step 3: On December 2, help empower Southern Maryland nonprofits through your participation!

Lions Club Continues Christmas Caring Tradition

Leonardtown Lion Hilda Mae Gatton joins store manager Scott Neitz to hang tags on the Lions Christmas Caring Tree in the lobby of the Leonardtown Snead's ACE Home Center. The tags contain Christmas wishes and clothing sizes for unnamed children provided by the St. Mary's County Department of Social Services. The members of the Leonardtown Lions Club along with patrons of the ACE Home Center select tags from the Christmas Caring Tree and purchase gifts for the children. All presents are then delivered by the Lions before Christmas to the children's homes.

A View From The BLEACHERS

Unloading on Load Management

By Ronald N. Guy
Contributing Writer

The NBA's regular season is the greatest insult to the sanctity of sports competition. I'm throwing haymakers right out of the gate. Questionable effort, non-existent defense and an inconsistent commitment to winning are hallmarks of the Association's 82-game sleepwalk starting in late October and ending, mercifully, with the NBA Playoffs in April (when the game transforms into a fantastic product).

There are, of course, some games worth the time, perhaps even the cost of a ticket. But good luck finding them. More often than not, a close watch of an NBA regular season game will reveal players with Tigger's attention span and Eeyore's energy, and coaches expressing Rabbit's befuddled frustration with the nonsense before their eyes. At which point Pooh might giggle and offer the wise observation that the most troubling thing isn't the folly happening on the court, but rather those who couldn't be bothered with the circus at all.

Our honey-obsessed sage, and his indirect reference to "load management", is spot on: Healthy players intentionally missing games in some theoretical attempt to ease the strain on their bodies, limit injury and increase availability in the playoffs (when games really matter), is a tolerated and controllable threat to the legitimacy of NBA competition. (Gasp) That was a breath-sapping condemnation of the now common practice of NBA stars tapping out of games to nurse a boo-boo or just because they need a day. Removing all emotion and dismissing every shred of obligation to the product, the concept of pulling off at a rest stop during the long regular season journey isn't nuts. Here's the problem: There's no evidence that it works. About two years ago, the NBA issued a report on regular season player participation. In the 1990s, a prideful era where practicing load management would have ruined one's reputation, players identified as "stars" missed an average of just 10.6 games per year. In the 2020s, the average games missed has risen to 23.9 games per season, this despite incredible advances in sports medicine and a game that is far less physical.

During a recent interview with Mike Tirico, Michael Jordan offered his thoughts on load management. You can guess where this is going. Jordan, one of sports' all-time greatest competitors, is not a fan, not at all Sam I am. He started with this: "Well, it shouldn't be needed, first and foremost," Jordan added, "You know, I never wanted to miss a game because it was an opportunity to prove. It was something that I felt like the fans are there that watch me play. I want to impress that guy way up on top who probably worked his a— off to get a ticket or to get money to buy the ticket." And finally, he put this bow on it: "You have a duty that if they're wanting to see you, and as an entertainer, I want to show. Right?"

Right! Every day is an opportunity to prove yourself, to impress your teammates, your adversaries and your customers. It's not just a job, it's a duty. It reminds me of Cal Ripken's simple comment on his record 2,632 consecutive games play: "I never really thought about the streak. It was very simple. I wanted to come to the ballpark, I wanted to play, I wanted to help the team win." Mindsets from a bygone era in sports.

It is foolhardy to compare the professional experience of an athlete in a major pro sport to virtually any other walk of life. The gap is too wide. I wouldn't want the fame or social media scrutiny and the travel would get old...but the money wouldn't and I could sure use an offseason (something most people don't experience in the 50 years between high school and retirement). Nevertheless, the importance of professional respect is universal, and is earned through earnestness and consistency — giving your best, even when you are not at your best. Load management isn't part of that formula and its practice in the NBA makes it hard to respect the product. That should matter more than it apparently does. Why? Because Michael Jordan said so.

Now in its second year, Veteran Saves Week centers around one core message: No matter where you are on your financial journey, small steps can lead to lasting change. Here are a few tips to help:

Understand the financial shift.

If you've recently re-entered civilian life, it's important to identify any gaps between your income and expenses. A key part of this gap often comes from the loss of military allowances, such as the Basic Allowance for Housing and Basic Allowance for Subsistence. You may also lose commissary and exchange privileges where groceries and goods were purchased tax-free.

Health benefits represent another shift. While you received health care through TRICARE on active duty, you might be eligible for TRICARE for Life and Veterans Administration benefits, but you may still need to supplement this coverage with a group health care plan from your employer or purchase it independently.

Build a budget.

Getting a clear picture of your finances helps you make informed decisions. Look at your monthly income, expenses and savings to understand your starting point.

One strategy you may find useful is the 50/30/20 rule. With this, you divide your monthly take-home pay into three parts: 50% for needs like housing, utilities, food and insurance, 30% for wants and 20% for savings and debt repayment.

Take essential financial steps.

Your monthly budget should include building an emergency fund, paying down high-rate debt and saving for retirement. It may help to use budgeting apps that categorize expenses and identify areas where you can cut back when necessary.

Building an emergency fund becomes even more critical during transition. Aim for three to six months of cash savings to provide a safety net for living expenses while you establish your civilian career.

Don't overlook the available retirement planning tools. Even if you will have a pension, you might consider putting money into an IRA, or a 401k if one is available to you through a new employer, or into stocks and bonds to keep building toward your long-term goals. It's also important to obtain a current Social Security statement since active-duty military pay FICA taxes.

Leverage available resources.

There are transition support programs through the military and the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs, which also offer debt relief programs and financial counseling services.

Consider connecting with a financial advisor who understands the unique challenges veterans face during and after transition. They can help you create a strategy that maximizes your benefits and helps position you for long-term success.

Move forward with confidence.

As Veteran Saves Week reminds us, small steps lead to lasting change. Your service has prepared you to overcome challenges — financial planning is just another mission you're equipped to complete successfully.

Wayne Lacey, 64

Donald Wayne Lacey, 64, of Avenue, MD, passed away on November 3, 2025, in Washington, D.C. Born on July 19, 1961, he was the son of the late John Stephen Lacey and the late Estelle Louise Farrell. Wayne was the loving husband of 42 years to Jacqueline Lacey, whom he married on May 28, 1983, in Holy Angels Catholic Church. He is survived by his son, Jonathan Lacey (Casey), and his daughter, Shannon Lacey (Justin), both of Mechanicsville, MD, and nine grandchildren, Kyle Bidwell, Owen Lacey, Hailey Bean, Douglas Harbold, Jr., Louise Lacey, Beau Bullis, Bodee Lacey, Stevie Lacey, and Atlas Bullis. Wayne was preceded in death by his grandson, Jonathan Lacey, Jr., and his sister, Patricia Vallandingham.

Wayne was born and raised in St. Mary's County, MD and graduated from Chopticon High School in 1980. He was known as "Wayne Lacey" in all of 7th District.

He was the proud owner of Wayne's Drains and Septic Service for 27 years. He was known and loved by all he came to meet. Any day of the week you could find Wayne working on a truck, job site, cutting grass, or shining his company equipment. He had a love for everything water; boating, skiing, tubing, and crabbing. If he wasn't home on the weekends, you could find him camping with his friends and family at Bethpage or other various campgrounds. You could also always find him volunteering at the Holy Angels, Sacred Heart, and other community dinners and events.

For many years, Wayne was a top sponsor for the David Williams Racing Team, bringing a love for racing to his grandson, Owen, and granddaughter, Louise, who both also began racing at young ages. If there was a sound to describe Wayne, it would be old country; George Jones, Conway Twitty, George Strait, Alan Jackson, and many others. His love for country music brought him to his feet and onstage singing karaoke, sounding just like George Jones himself.

To say Wayne will be missed is an understatement. He left an impact on this community that brings a smile to anyone's face. A man with a great smile, a great heart, and always a great time.

The family will receive friends on Tuesday, November 18, 2025, from 5:00 PM to 8:00 PM, with prayers recited at 7:00 PM, in the Mattingley-Gardiner Funeral Home, Leonardtown, MD, where a funeral service will be held in the funeral home chapel on Wednesday, November 19, 2025, at 10:00 AM, with Fr. James Oberle officiating. Interment will follow at Sacred Heart Catholic Church Cemetery, Bushwood, MD. Serving as pallbearers will be Jonathan Lacey, Owen Lacey, Kyle Bidwell, RJ Harbold, Justin Bullis, and Steve Windsor.

Contributions may be made in Wayne's memory to Holy Angels Catholic Church, 21340 Colton Point Road, Avenue, MD 20609, or online at angelsinavenue.org (online giving).

Condolences may be made to the family at www.mgfh.com.

Tips to Help Seniors Travel Safely

Travel was once a key component of the picture working professionals created of their ideal retirements. While the COVID-19 pandemic put many retirement travel plans on hold in recent years, jetting off to distant locales is once again on retirees' radars.

A 2022 survey from AARP found that individuals 50 and over were poised to not only get back on the road, but also spend significantly more money on travel. Prior to the pandemic, Americans 50 and over spent $7,314 annually on travel, according to data from AARP. By spring 2022, individuals in that same age bracket indicated a readiness to spend $8,369 on travel.

Eagerness to get back on the road, in the air or on the high seas could make it easy to overlook some principles of safe travel. However, such an oversight could lead to complications that could make it hard to enjoy time away from home. The following tips can reduce the likelihood that seniors encounter trouble while traveling.

- Determine if any health issues are affecting your desired destinations. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention has a website devoted to travel vaccines (cdc.gov/travel/page/travel-vaccines), and that page can be an invaluable resource for individuals planning a vacation. What's more, the CDC even provides a specific list of destinations and the latest travel health notices for each of those nations. That list, accessible at cdc.gov/travel/desti- nations/list can help seniors determine if there are any health-related safety issues in countries they hope to visit.

- Speak to your physician. A pre-trip consultation with a physician can uncover any issues that might arise while you're away. Such issues may be easily managed for domestic travelers who are not planning to visit any especially remote locations, but they will not necessarily be as easily navigated when traveling overseas. Physicians can recommend certain vaccinations or measures to ensure your health while away. In addition, a pre-trip doctor visit is a great time to refill prescriptions that you will need while you're away.

- Take financial precautions as well. Of course, not all travel-related concerns are medical. Finances also require some pre-trip attention. Inflation has caused a sharp spike in the price of various commodities since the start of 2022, so travelers should study up on the cost of food and attractions at their destination to ensure they have enough money to enjoy themselves. Baggage costs have risen significantly in recent years, so seniors traveling on a budget may want to pack less and do laundry while traveling in an effort to save money. In addition, the unpredictable nature of travel since the onset of the pandemic has underscored the utility of travel insurance. Seniors can look into travel insurance that could reimburse them in the case of delays or cancellations.

- Privately share your itinerary. Prior to departing, share your itinerary with friends and family. Avoid sharing the itinerary on social media platforms, which can make you a target for criminals at home and at your destination. The itinerary should include where you're staying, the dates you're visiting certain locations and the dates of activities you'll be engaging in on your trip.

Seniors rediscovering the joy of traveling can take various measures to make their trips more safe.

Signs It Could Be Time to Consider an Assisted Living Facility

Assisted living facilities provide a vital service to families across the globe. In fact, more than 800,000 people in the United States are currently living in assisted living facilities, according to a 2023 report from Zippia, an online recruitment service that gathers information from the Bureau of Labor Statistics and its own internal data.

The decision to move oneself or an aging relative into an assisted living facility is complicated. Though such facilities typically offer an excellent standard of care, it can still be bittersweet for an individual to leave his or her home. It also can be difficult to identify when is the best time to make such a transition. Though each individual case is unique, the following are some indicators that the time might be right to move oneself or an aging loved one into an assisted living facility.

- Emotional challenges: The National Council on Aging notes that certain emotional challenges may indicate the time is right for an individual to move into an assisted living facility. The NCOA encourages individuals making such a decision independent of others to ask themselves if they are experiencing feelings of loneliness or depression. Assisted living facilities can provide much-needed social interaction that seniors may not be getting at home. If feelings of loneliness or depression are present, then the time might be right to make the move to an assisted living facility.

- Physical challenges: Many individuals move into assisted living facilities because the physical challenges of daily life have become too significant to handle alone. The NCOA notes that individuals who are feeling overwhelmed by tasks such as buying groceries, cooking and cleaning may benefit from moving into assisted living facilities that handle such tasks for them.

- Issues with hygiene: The presence of additional challenges related to hygiene also may suggest a move to an assisted living facility may be beneficial. Staff at assisted living facilities can help adults who are struggling to bathe, dress themselves or use a restroom on their own. Family members can look for signs that a loved one's personal hygiene has taken a turn for the worse.

Issues with hygiene can be a byproduct of depression, and poor hygiene also can increase risk for infection and illness.

- Injuries: The NCOA notes that falls or near-falls are another potential sign that a person can benefit from moving to an assisted living facility. Falls can hurt anyone, but they can be especially damaging to aging adults. For example, the National Institutes of Health report that falls may result in loss of independence, chronic pain and reduced quality of life. Assisted living facilities are often equipped with features to reduce risk of falls, such as grab bars in showers and bathrooms and even along corridor walls. In addition, assisted living facilities may be housed in single-story buildings or equipped with elevators, which means residents won't be forced to navigate potentially dangerous staircases at any point during the day. Staff also can respond quickly if residents experience a fall, providing much-needed assistance that seniors living alone or with an aging spouse may not get at home.

Various signs may indicate that the time is right for individuals to move into an assisted living facility so they can more safely navigate daily life.

What Dating Looks Like Later in Life

People are living longer, a reality that can be traced to a number of factors, including advancements in medicine and greater dissemination of information regarding preventive health care. According to data from the United Nations Population Division, the average life expectancy in the United States is 81.65 for women and 76.61 for men. Canada has even higher life expectancies, at 84.74 for women and 81.15 for men.

As people live longer, some may outlive their significant others and ultimately find themselves once again interested in sharing experiences with a special someone. Seniors ready to re-enter the dating pool may find that things are quite different from what they experienced as naïve teenagers or young adults. Dating used to be about hanging out with friends and meeting people at shared events, such as school dances or work parties or even while enjoying a night out with friends. Nowadays, dating often begins in cyberspace. This can be confusing and anxiety-inducing for adults who didn't grow up with technology guiding their every move.

According to a report in The Atlantic, more than one-third of baby boomers are not currently married, and this generation has had higher rates of separation and divorce and lower rates of marriage than the generations that preceded them. Many boomers have years ahead of them to devote to new relationships. Here's what they may want to know before navigating twenty-first century dating waters.

- You're not in this alone. While online dating may be portrayed as a young person's game, plenty of older adults are now finding connections online. In fact, many different dating apps are geared toward the senior set, including SeniorMatch, eHarmony, Singles50, OKCupid, and Silver Singles, among others.
- You have more time for fun. As a senior, you may have more time to devote to recreation and leisure. This can be a great opportunity to get out and meet someone who shares your passions and interests.
- Online dating has its advantages. While online dating apps and websites may have certain things working against them, particularly if their algorithms for pairing people are not fine-tuned, they also can be helpful. Online dating can expand social circles beyond local neighborhoods or even states, provinces or countries. You're casting your net over a much larger body of water. Furthermore, dating app profiles typically spell out exactly what another person is seeking, which can save seniors from having to revisit awkward dating moments from years past.

Seniors may have to navigate new waters in modern dating. But with a good mindset and a little persistence, it is possible for seniors to find a special someone in cyberspace.

How to Make Your Bucket List a Reality

The idiom "kick the bucket" is a euphemism for passing away that does not paint such a rosy picture if you consider its origins. However, the phrase "bucket list," though undeniably related to "kick the bucket," definitely sheds a brighter light on the topic of mortality.

A bucket list is a plan for living life to its fullest and prioritizing opportunities to engage in all sorts of activities. A bucket list can be made at any point in life and is not exclusive to individuals facing their own mortality. Here are some tips for putting bucket list plans into action.

- Stop and think about what you really want to experience in your lifetime. Leave factors like money or proximity out of it. No ideas are off-limits. This is your opportunity to brainstorm, and nothing is too crazy or silly.
- Write the bucket list in a comfortable or inspiring place, which may help ideas flow more freely. The place might be a cozy nook at a bookstore or a quiet spot on the beach.
- Choose things that are meaningful to you as well as ideas that are frivolous and fun. Make your list a mix of each, and don't take yourself too seriously.

- Divide the bucket list by time. Are there items you can check off in a particular season, such as skiing the Alps? If your bucket list involves moving to a bustling city, determine if you'd like to do that after your children have reached adulthood or if you want to expose them to city life as youngsters. Categorizing the list by periods of your life can make it easier to prioritize certain activities over others.
- Determine if each bucket list activity will be a solitary or joint pursuit. Various activities are more enjoyable when shared with others, but some you might be more inclined to do alone.
- Set aside a budget for funding bucket list activities. Bucket lists may include some costly activities, so start saving now so money does not stand in your way. Open a savings account specifically for funding bucket list excursions and set up automatic deposits.

Bucket lists can encourage people to live life to the fullest and it's never too early to get started on a list of your own.

Memory Kits Now Available

Supports Cognitive Wellness in St. Mary's

St. Mary's County Government's Department of Aging & Human Services (DAHS), in proud collaboration with St. Mary's County Library, is excited to announce the launch of Memory Kits, a new resource designed to support cognitive health among older adults and individuals experiencing cognitive decline.

These specially curated Memory Kits are now available for borrowing at no cost from the three local Senior Activity Centers (Garvey, Loffler, and Northern), and all four branches of St. Mary's County Library (Charlotte Hall, Leonardtown, Lexington Park, and the Mobile Library).

Each Memory Kit contains a variety of engaging materials, including books, games, puzzles, and hands-on activities designed to stimulate memory, mental agility, and overall cognitive function. The kits are organized by themes, allowing participants to choose topics that best match their interests or cognitive needs. Each kit also includes a copy of the Resource Guide for Older Adults, which offers valuable information on local services and support networks.

"With adults aged 65 and older representing the fastest-growing population in St. Mary's County, the need for memory support and cognitive wellness resources continues to expand," said Lori Jennings-Harris, DAHS Director. "The Memory Kits offer meaningful ways for individuals and families to support brain health at every stage of aging. We are deeply grateful to St. Mary's County Library for their ongoing and outstanding partnership in supporting the needs of older adults and enhancing quality of life throughout our community."

Democrat Files for District 29 Senate Seat

Chuck Borges has filed his candidacy as a Democrat for the District 29 (St. Mary's/Calvert) Maryland Senate seat currently held by Republican Jack Bailey, who has filed for re-election.

Borges issued the following statement: "I'm a retired Naval officer, decorated combat veteran, and former civil servant at agencies including the CDC and Social Security. I spent nearly 23 years in the Navy and much of the past five years in civil service in the technology sector.

"I have dedicated my life to either defending the public or finding solutions to its most pressing problems, and I'm writing to you to announce my candidacy for the Maryland District 29 State Senate seat.

"My father was an Air Force enlisted soldier turned FAA Air Traffic Controller, so I experienced first-hand how government decisions can impact a family's livelihood during the PATCO strike in 1981. We moved to rural upstate New York following the strike due to the lower cost of living, and we learned hard lessons about affordability and community.

"I went to MIT on a Navy ROTC scholarship, was on deployment during 9/11, and was awarded a 'Combat V' for individual action in Iraq.

"I moved to Southern Maryland in 2005 to attend Test Pilot's School and (apart from military contingencies) have made this area my home here ever since.

"Our region's rural entrepreneurship brings back fond memories of my roots, while our tech savvy shows an area poised to lead the nation in new technology areas.

"After Test Pilot's School, I served as NAVAIR's Chief Data Officer and worked to keep our sailors safe using data innovation. I started my civil service career as a Presidential Innovation Fellow at the CDC during COVID, working to help agencies respond faster to public health challenges. In my last civil service job, I stood up to DOGE to protect the public's most sensitive data. Protecting the public is our most sacred trust.

"Now I'm looking forward to drawing on my experiences in modern technology and innovation to accelerate solutions that provide affordable housing, reduce medical costs, improve outcomes for our agricultural sector, protect our biodiversity, and improve food security.

"With the challenges our country faces today, we need strong, vibrant, and sustainable community growth to thrive. This means ensuring that we provide our agricultural community with the tools and resources they need to be successful, that our residents have training and job prospects to provide them security and safety, and that we understand how to attract new industry and jobs to the region.

"As the State Senator representing St. Mary's and southern Calvert County, I will champion state policies that incentivize local sustainability and growth while protecting our agricultural development and biodiversity.

"Service to my country, making an impact in the lives of others, and ensuring everyone has equitable opportunities to learn, live, and grow have been the guiding principles of my life. I am honored to have the opportunity to earn your vote, and I hope to be able to learn from each of you over the course of this campaign. Together we can build policies that strengthen and support us all."

Move to New Administration Building Begins

Commissioners Hold First Meeting There on Nov. 18

By Dick Myers
Staff Writer

After years of discussion about what to do, and two years of banging nails and laying sheetrock and shingles, the new Calvert County Administration Building (CAB) is methodically opening for business. The Calvert County Board of County Commissioners (BOCC) will be holding their first meeting in the building on Nov. 18 on the first floor, in a meeting room which seats 228 people, far larger than the current one in the courthouse.

The commissioners will be sharing the first floor of the new building with the Treasurer's Office, which will relocate from the courthouse in December or January.

The new building was accelerated at the request of the members of the county's judiciary, who were desperate for additional space in the courthouse. The commissioners' office was the first to move to turn over their space in the courthouse to the judges.

Two commissioner boards ago, the new building was targeted for the site of the old National Guard Armory. But a new board, led by Commissioner Buddy Hance, pivoted to using the site of the County Services Plaza, a smaller building that housed several agencies. That building was demolished in 2021 to make way for the new building. It was built in the 1970s.

The new County Administration Building is 103,000 square feet and four stories. According to information supplied by county government at the request of The County Times, "This new building consolidates county employees from multiple locations, including the County Services Plaza, Courthouse Annex, Albright Building, 131 Main Street, 30 Duke Street and the Circuit Courthouse."

The CAB's second floor houses Communications and Media Relations, Economic Development, Technology Services, the county administrator's office, and the county attorney's office. On the third floor reside Planning & Zoning, Inspections and Permits, Human Resources, and the Environmental Health division of the Calvert County Health Department. On the fourth floor are Public Works, Finance & Budget, and Soil Conservation.

"Following the demolition of the old County Services Plaza in 2021, construction on the CAB began in September 2023 and final closeout work is now being completed," the county says.

The project cost was $40 million, paid with general obligation bonds. The main contractor on the project is Forrester Construction of Rockville.

When guests arrive at the main entrance, they will see a set of glass double doors. Entry is through the right-side set of doors, while exiting is through the left set of doors. Upon entering the building, visitors will pass through security by the Calvert County Sheriff's Office deputies into the lobby.

"We are delighted to welcome residents and the community to the new County Administration Building, a centralized location for county services. This move consolidates many county services into a single modern, centralized and convenient location in the county seat of Prince Frederick," said County Administrator Linda Turner.

The new County Administration Building is at 150 Main Street in Prince Frederick. The Nov. 18 meeting will be in the Chesapeake Hearing Room, Room 119. The Calvert County Commissioners held their last meeting at the Calvert County Courthouse on Oct. 28, where many boards have been meeting since the current building opened in 1916.

According to a press release, "The public is invited to attend the Nov. 18 meeting. Meetings will continue to be available at Calvert County Government's YouTube page. The public can also listen to commissioner meetings via telephone by calling 929-229-2458, meeting ID: 202-970-551, passcode #. Meetings can also be watched live on Channel 99 and 1070.

In conjunction with the move into the new building, the Calvert County Department of Public Works, General Services Division, announces that document drop boxes for several county departments have been relocated from 205 Main St. (Courthouse Square) to the new CAB.

Drop boxes (blue boxes) for the following departments are now available in the CAB parking lot, near the building's loading dock on the northeast corner of the building:

- Public Works (Public Works agreements and other related documents)
- Environmental Health (permit applications and forms)
- Planning & Zoning (permit submissions and documents)

Residents who previously used these drop boxes should now begin using the new location. The former drop boxes at 205 Main St. have been permanently removed.

Drop boxes are accessible 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

The drop boxes at the 175 Main St. will remain and should be used for the Treasurer's Office until further notice.
