CalvertHealth-Duke Partnership Lauded

By Dick Myers
Staff Writer

With respect to cancer, “The state of Maryland, in and of itself, has some of the highest incidents and poor outcomes in the country,” said CalvertHealth Medical Center Chief Medical Officer & Cancer Center Program Director Dr. Theodore Tsangaris. “Calvert County doesn’t do very well either.”

Dr. Tsangaris’ remarks came during a July 9 briefing to the Calvert County Board of County Commissioners (BOCC) on the hospital’s alliance with Duke University. He appeared with CalvertHealth President & CEO Jeremy Bradford.

Tsangaris said, “We’ve been working on a strategic initiative with Jeremy’s arrival, prioritizing some things that we thought were very important to the county from a health standpoint. Women’s health is one of them, nutrition, bariatrics, orthopedics. And of course, cancer was a huge one.”

He added, “Rural counties in general don’t do well. But here’s some of the facts. Age-adjusted death rate, meaning per age, we have a bad outcome from breast cancer, cancer in general melanoma, lung cancer, colorectal cancer, and prostate cancer. We did a need assessment and we found that we really did have a significant need for our cancer program.”

“A lot of work went into deciding who we might want to partner with, because as a rural county hospital, cancer care really requires lots of resources. And we can’t afford to do it ourselves. We don’t have the bandwidth to do it. We don’t have the bench strength to do it.” He added. “So, we looked at multiple partners, some of them within the state, some of them more locally. And then, Duke University came to the forefront, partly because they’ve done this before. They have 13 affiliates in their network, and that goes from Michigan to South Carolina. And so, they had a lot of practice working with community hospitals like ours to help develop their cancer program and help maintain the cancer program at a high level.”

He noted, “The key was to keep our patients local, keep them here in the county. So that very few times would a patient here in Calvert County have to go anywhere else, and Duke really fit the bill.”

He said of Duke, “It is a world class hospital. It has more than just a great basketball program. Currently they’re ranked 29th in US News and World Report. I’m not a big list person, but this is a consistent finding.

“And to put some perspective on that, if you’re a member of this county and you want good healthcare, you’d have to go to Philadelphia, to University of Pennsylvania, Johns Hopkins, or Duke University to get that kind of care. That’s the spread of how good Duke is.”

Dr. Tsangaris reported, “These were things we identified as opportunities for our cancer program and how we thought Duke could help us: clinical practice, performance improvement, business and operations, clinical research, and education.”

Regarding education, he said, “These are some very basic things that we haven’t had up until this point. So, continuing medical education (CME) accreditation, for not only doctors, but nurses, and Duke provides that for all cancer-related educational programs.”

He added, “We’ve been able to send our nurses down to Durham for education. So, this has been a great two-way street, palliative care externships. Pharmacy — our pharmacist came down to Duke, and they came up and looked at our pharmacy, which by the way, is one of the best pharmacies I’ve ever been privileged to be associated with.”

He added, “And then onboarding for all our registered nurses and advanced practice providers. So really, really exciting stuff.”

He said two of the hospital’s medical oncologists, Dr. Artie Patel and Dr. Ken Abbott, “are now integrated into the Duke Cancer Network annual review, which is coming up next weekend in Durham. And Dr. Patel in particular will be a moderator for advanced, pulmonary cancer care. So, this is a two-way street. We’re integrating our providers and our nurses into their educational programs, clinical practice, tumor board involvement.” They have three tumor boards: breast, lung and thoracic.

He observed, “Duke not only participates in many of those for us with either a specialist in surgery or medical oncology, but we are also now starting to participate in their tumor boards. So, this is a great opportunity for an exchange of ideas and best practices, and then the peer-to-peer relationships for our providers. So, I can pick up the phone and call up another breast surgeon and ask their opinion on a difficult case and vice versa. So, our local patients are getting top-notch recommendations and care because of this relationship.”

The hospital hopes to hear soon of their acceptance into a clinical trial, something they have never had before. “They don’t have to go to Durham for these clinical trials. They don’t have to go to New York or MD Anderson [Cancer Center]. They don’t even have to go up to Baltimore. They can stay right here and have top-notch care, which I think is huge performance improvement.”

Dr. Tsangaris said, “They’ve looked at our order sets, they’ve looked at the way we process our patients, the way we write our notes, our medical records. And they’ve been very much involved in improving how we take care of our cancer patients just from an administrative and legal standpoint. So, this has been really very important. And then business operations and managements. They’ve been significantly helpful in getting the robot.”

He said Becker’s Hospital Review ranked CalvertHealth Medical Center as one of the top 100 health organizations who have an oncology program. “Now that’s not small community hospitals, that’s not rural hospitals, that’s hospitals throughout the nation.”

He said only three hospitals in the state made the list, University of Maryland, Johns Hopkins, and CalvertHealth. In Washington, DC, none of the large cancer hospitals made this list.

“I think we should all be very proud of it.” he added.

Veteran Educator Appointed to Top School Administrator Post

By Dick Myers
Staff Writer

A woman who has worked herself up in the ranks of Calvert County Public Schools from special education teacher to assistant principal and principal to director of Secondary School Improvement to Chief Academic Officer has been elevated to the top administrative position in the school system.

The Calvert County Board of Education at their July 11 meeting ratified School Superintendent Dr. Andraé Townsel's appointment of Dr. Susan Johnson to be the new Chief Operations Officer [COO]. She has been with the school system for 33 years.

She replaces Tony Navarro, who retired after being COO for 11 years.

Dr. Townsel told the school board before their vote, "Dr. Susan Johnson inspires others to work on behalf of children every day. She believes that every child deserves the opportunity to reach their potential and adults must be willing to do whatever it takes, even if uncomfortable, to make that happen. Student learning and results have been the cornerstones of her career at the school and central office level, as she has implemented effective school improvement efforts, built cohesive teams, and fostered positive relationships with staff, students, and families. Dr. Johnson believes that marked results are attainable when school improvement efforts reach the classroom and change the learning experience for each student."

Dr. Townsel recited Johnson's background, "Dr. Johnson earned her Bachelor of Science in Special Education from Virginia Commonwealth University in 1991 and her Master's degree in Curriculum and Instruction from Western Maryland College. In 2012, Dr. Johnson completed her Ph.D. in Instructional Leadership for Changing Populations from Notre Dame of Maryland University. Dr. Johnson received the 2007 Washington Post Distinguished Educational Leadership Award and was nominated several times for the MASSP Principal of the Year award."

On accepting the appointment, Dr. Johnson said, "Thank you so much for trusting in me to move from the Chief Academic Officer to the Chief Operations Officer. Throughout my career, I have been deeply invested in serving the Calvert County community and I look forward to continuing that in this new position. While I think it might be challenging, I do also think that it will be invigorating to move to the operations side of the house. I have so much gratitude for the dynamic board members, administrators, teachers, and support staff that I have had the pleasure to work with and learn from over the past several years. And I look forward to continuing those relationships as we move forward. I would also like to thank Tony Navarro, who has been so instrumental in teaching and sharing his role with me the past seven years. I feel strongly that this knowledge coupled with my experiences with negotiations, transportation, school construction facilities and human resources, that we will be able to increase the efficiencies and the effectiveness of our already outstanding departments, extend our partnerships with the bus contractors and our associations and continue to serve our students and staff of Calvert County. Thank you so much for this appointment."

The board also appointed Jackie Jacobs as Chief Academic Officer, filling the vacancy left with Dr. Johnson's appointment.

Dr. Townsel told the board, "Since 2021, Ms. Jacobs has held the position of Director of System and Instructional Performance. Prior to this role, she served in various capacities, including Supervisor of Professional Development, Digital Learning, and Teacher Induction; Supervisor of Secondary Mathematics; Vice Principal; Dean and Learning Specialist, as well as a mathematics teacher. Her educational background includes a Bachelor of Science degree in Mathematics with a concentration in Education from Frostburg State University (1994) and her Master of Science in Curriculum and Instruction with a Certificate in Administration and Supervision from McDaniel College (2004). Additionally, Ms. Jacobs has been an integral part of the Negotiations Team and served as the Lead Negotiator for the Calvert Association of Supervisors and Administrators for six years."

Jacobs said, "I am deeply honored to stand before you today as the newly appointed Chief Academic Officer for Calvert County Public Schools. This moment is not only a significant milestone in my career, but it's also a testament to the collective efforts and unwavering support of many individuals who have guided, mentored, and inspired me along this journey. First, I want to express my gratitude to Dr. Townsell and the Board of Education for entrusting me in this pivotal role. I am committed to upholding the high standards of excellence that define Calvert County Public Schools and to fostering an environment where every student thrives. Every student deserves access to high quality education and the opportunity to succeed. Together, we will continue to build equitable and inclusive learning environments that celebrate diversity and ensure that each student and staff member feels seen, heard, and respected. I'm excited to embark in this journey with you As Chief Academic Officer. I promise to lead with integrity, empathy, and a relentless pursuit of excellence. By partnering with our schools,

Jackie Jacobs

Kelly Cleland

Bryan Welker

Erin Mathers

our families, and our students, we will build a collaborative and supportive community dedicated to each student's success and wellbeing.'

The board also ratified the appointments of Kelly Cleland as principal of Plum Point Middle School, Bryan Welker as Supervisor of Fine Arts, and Erin Mathers as Assistant Principal of Northern High School.

Cleland has been an educational leader in Calvert County Public Schools since August 1991. Currently, she holds the position of Support and Improvement Specialist in the Department of Instruction, which is a grant-funded position. Previously, she served as Principal of Windy Hill Elementary School for eight years.

Since 2019, Welker currently holds the position of Director of Bands and School Improvement Chair at Howard High School. Before that, he served as Music Department Chair, Instrumental Music Director, and Elementary Instrumental Music Teacher.

Mathers began her teaching journey in Calvert County in 2017 as an English Teacher at Northern High School. Prior to that, she taught at Chopticon High School in St. Mary's County.

Lusby Man Killed in Motorcycle Crash

Members of the Calvert County Sheriff's Patrol Bureau and Crash Reconstruction Unit responded on July 14 shortly after 7 p.m. to a report of a motor vehicle crash in the area of Maryland Rt. 4 and Nursery Road in Lusby.

A preliminary investigation revealed a Dodge 3500 was traveling north on Maryland Rt. 4 just north of Nursery Road. A Honda motorcycle operated by Paul O'Neal, 36 of Lusby, was also traveling north on Rt. 4. Per multiple witnesses, the motorcycle was being operated at an excessive speed. As it approached the Dodge, the bike failed to slow down and struck the rear passenger side of the Dodge causing O'Neal to be ejected from the bike.

Emergency Medical Services responded to the scene and rendered medical aid. O'Neal was pronounced deceased on the scene due to injuries from the crash.

The driver of the Dodge, David Payne, 52 of St. Leonard, was uninjured. Payne is the assistant sheriff for Calvert County. He is a lieutenant colonel.

The motorcycle's excessive speed and failure to control speed to avoid a collision are believed to be factors in this crash.

Deputy Anna Morrison of the Crash Reconstruction Team is conducting the crash investigation. Anyone with information is asked to contact her at 410-535-2800 or via email Anna.Morrison@calvertcountymd.gov. Please reference case #24-54270.

Press Release from CCSO

Regional Partnership Aimed at Workforce Development

By Dick Myers
Staff Writer

Calvert County's involvement in a regional workforce development initiative is expanding, according to information provided to the county commissioners during a June 9 briefing.

Economic Development Director Julie Oberg said in a memo to the commissioners, "Southern Maryland 2030 Workforce Development Initiative is a workforce development initiative to build a STEM pipeline, increase career opportunities, and expand partnerships with government, industry, and academia. It is a tri-county program that supports paid apprenticeships, paid college internships and the SPARK! Career Awareness Fair, cyber lab facilities and related STEM and artisan/skilled trades activities. The Patuxent Partnership (TPP) has partnered with the College of Southern Maryland, St. Mary's College of Maryland, Calvert, Charles, and St. Mary's County Public Schools, industry, and the Naval Air Warfare Center Aviation Division (NAWCAD) for this initiative. In the first year, the Spark! Fair focused primarily on St. Mary's County, with 40 Calvert County high school students attending. In the second year, 150 Calvert County high school students attended. In both years, bus transportation for Calvert County students was paid for by TPP and SoMD 2030. TPP also provided approximately $80,000 for the CSM Cyber Lab build-out in Prince Frederick. This CSM Cyber Lab supports CSM students, dual enrollment programs, and other cyber education opportunities with Calvert County Public Schools. TPP is working with the Calvert County Department of Economic Development and reaching out to the Calvert County Chamber of Commerce to share information with the business community about the SoMD 2030 Workforce Development initiative. The first two years of SoMD 2030 were funded by NAWCAD and will end in October 2024. TPP is currently seeking additional funding opportunities through the Rural Maryland Council. NAWCAD will provide some funding for the third year."

TPP Executive Director Bonnie Green explained, "We're a nonprofit member organization that works with government, industry and academia on science and technology issues, programs of interest to the naval aviation community and the broader community, and a great deal of time and energy on workforce development. We have been supporting STEM Workforce for many years, and we are very happy to have Ms. Sheebah Smith, the Deputy Director of Economic Development on the TPP Board. And thanks to her, we've become more engaged."

Green said, "We work very closely with the College of Southern Maryland. We have an education partnership agreement with the Naval Air Warfare Center, aircraft Division [NAWC-AD] and St. Mary's College of Maryland. And we have what is called a partnership intermediary agreement with the Naval Air Warfare Center Aircraft Division. And this covers STEM projects, other work that we do on behalf of the Navy, and it covers our Southern Maryland 2030 Workforce Development Initiative."

She explained, "This is a program that is funded by NAWC-AD and thanks to the Southern Maryland Navy Alliance, who spent a good bit of time lobbying and to the efforts of our Congressman Steny Hoyer, we were able to get this funding. So, 2030 increases the STEM pipeline in Southern Maryland and builds career opportunities as well as helping many of the employers find workers for positions that previously have gone unfilled. It educates high school students on careers with the Navy, on careers in the contractor community, in healthcare across the spectrum. It has expanded our partnership in the Tri-County area."

Green said in the first year of the Spark! Career Awareness Fair they hosted 440 students at the University of Maryland smart building in St. Mary's County. She said, "It's a very impressive facility."

"It's a hands-on all-day program," she said, adding, "We had 20 some organizations from the Navy at Pax River. We had medical, we had hospitals, we had the College of Southern Maryland. We had HVAC, we had trades organizations all talking to the students and demonstrating opportunities. We also had the Sheriff's department. And it was interesting to see how many students, wanted to sit down and talk about career opportunities in law enforcement as well."

Green noted, "We did it again in February of this year, and we had 900 students, and that included 150 students this year from Calvert County. So, what we do when we invite the counties to participate is we cover the cost of bus transportation, and we provide lunch for all of the students who attend."

She explained, "This recently closed academic year, we had 65 apprentices. And not only is this really valuable to the students, some of whom stay on full-time with the organizations, which include the Navy, the contracting community, businesses, and the nonprofit community. Some of them are staying on part-time and going to the College of Southern Maryland. Others have concluded that's not what they want to do when they're going on to another career or college or to a better opportunity."

Green admired, "So our initial focus of the funding was on St. Mary's County, because that's what we know. We have done outreach now to Calver County, and we have some meetings coming up, and we're also working with Charles County and the folks at Indian Head because of the career opportunities there. One of the challenges for Calver County is two of your most substantial employers are not able to participate in an apprentice program because of security concerns and so forth."

She said of the commitment to the CSM cyber lab, "No matter what work you're doing, there's a cyber factor as well as careers directly in the cyber field because it's critical across the workforce."

Green noted, "Because many of our members and many of the people who work at Pax River live in Calvert County, we are particularly interested in getting more engaged and developing more opportunities with the students in Calvert County."

She explained, "We are all about growing the regional workforce, and one of the things that we have learned is that for students, even in St. Mary's County, if you don't have a father, mother, sister, or brother who works inside the gate of Pax River, it's just a mystery. So, we have for our apprentices and interns, an opportunity for a tour inside the gate."

A Huntingtown teen has been charged in connection with the July 15 shootings in Prince Frederick that left two people injured, one of them critically.

The Calvert County Sheriff's Office reports the arrest of Andre Xavier Howe, 17, on July 16 after an extensive search involving K-9 units and drones.

Howe will be charged as an adult with two counts of attempted first-degree murder, two counts of attempted second-degree murder, two counts of first-degree assault, two counts of second-degree assault, two counts of use of a firearm in a felony/violent crime, possession of a firearm under the age of 21, and possession of a stolen firearm.

The sheriff's office in a July 16 press release asserted, "The arrest marks a significant step forward in ensuring the safety

The release started, "On July 14, 2024, deputies responded to reports of shots fired in the 1600 block of Mint Court in Prince Frederick. Upon arrival, deputies discovered two victims with gunshot wounds, who were immediately transported to area trauma centers for treatment."

Detectives from the Calvert County Sheriff's Office swiftly launched an investigation, gathering evidence and interviewing witnesses. Their diligent work led to the identification of Andre Howe as a suspect in the case. A warrant for Howe's arrest was issued, and he was taken into custody without incident earlier today."

"We are committed to thoroughly investigating any acts of violence in our community and bringing those responsible to justice," said Sheriff Ricky Cox. "The arrest of Andre Howe is a testament to our detectives' hard work and dedication. We will

Proposed redevelopment of a portion of the 4.5-acre lot by demolishing the existing office and constructing a new two-story office building in its place. It is further proposed to repave the southern portion of the site and to construct a storage warehouse and wall to segregate parking between the storage building yard & adjacent flex space tenants. but once established he would turn it over to someone else. He launched the lacrosse program at SMR in 1989 as coach, and was still there in 2015 when he retired. He brought that program to prominence in the Washington Catholic Athletic Conference. The team was well respected in the conference, and they won the WCAC championship in 2007. John received many accolades in the lacrosse world but the most important thing to him was the young men he coached and teaching them to "Be the Best".

After retirement from building and lacrosse the Sothorons enjoyed their grandchildren, traveled, enjoyed their many friends and spent the summers at their second home on Keuka Lake, one of the Finger Lakes in upstate New York. John enjoyed his prize winning, antique 1954 Cris Craft wooden boat.

John was diagnosed with a rare type of blood cancer in August of 2023. He enjoyed the time left with his family, traveled to visit his sons, went to lacrosse games, and went to Keuka Lake, his heaven on earth.

In addition to his wife, and sons, John is survived by three siblings, Cokie Sothoron, of Youngsville, NC, Peggy Wormwood, of Davidsonville, MD and Kenny Sothoron, of Mechanicsville, MD; and two grandchildren with a third on the way.

A Celebration of Life is scheduled for August 25th at 12:00pm in the Donnie Williams Athletic Center at St. Mary's Ryken, 22600 Camp Calvert Rd. in Leonardtown.

Kay Aud, 76

Katherine "Kay" Mattingly Aud, 76, of Leonardtown, MD, passed away June 21, 2024, at MedStar St. Mary's Hospital with her loving family at her side.

She was born Oct. 10, 1947, in Leonardtown, the daughter of George A. Mattingly Sr. and Elizabeth "Betty Wise" Duke Mattingly.

Kay was a lifelong resident of St. Mary's County. She attended St. Mary's Academy. After raising her four children with then-husband Charles E. Aud Sr., she began working at The Cabbage Patch children's store in St. Mary's Square in Lexington Park. She later opened Great Mills Video and the Odds & Ends gift shop in Great Mills.

She then opened the Christmas Shop on the Square in Leonardtown with her mother. They enjoyed trips several times a year to Williamsburg, VA, to purchase inventory for the store, which carried gift items that changed with the seasons and the holidays. She loved decorating at home as well -- decorations, knick-knacks, door wreaths and outdoor flags for every occasion.

Kay also worked as a receptionist at Century 21 New Millennium in Lexington Park.

She stepped up to take care of family members throughout her life. After retirement, Kay devoted all of her time to doing just that, often caring for her grandchildren and great-grandchildren. They loved their "Nina." She will be remembered for her kind and caring nature.

Kay most enjoyed time spent at the family's beach house at Cornfield Harbor -- her "happy place." Being at the cottage along the Potomac River put her at peace and brought her so much joy. Family could always count on gatherings there from Memorial Day until Labor Day and even later in the year, weather permitting. But she enjoyed being there regardless of the weather.

She is survived by her children Charles Edward Aud Jr. and his wife Jody of Mount Airy, MD, George Matthew Aud of Great Mills, Lisa Marie Aud of Ormond by the Sea, FL, and Amy Michelle Aud of Great Mills; grandchildren Ryan Duke Aud of San Francisco, CA, Morgan Emily Aud of Baltimore, and Madison Aud and Hannah Aud of Mount Airy, MD; great-grandchildren Alyiah Russell of Prince Frederick and Marley Aud of Piney Point; sister Angela Mattingly Breck and her partner Andrew J. Scott of La Plata; and nephews Andrew Mattingly of Charlotte Hall and Chris Breck of Mount Airy.

She was predeceased by her parents. Her brother George A. Mattingly Jr. of Leonardtown passed away two weeks after his sister.

Family will receive friends on Monday, July 15, 2024, from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m., with a Memorial Service celebrated by Reverend Joe Orlando at 5 p.m. at Brinsfield Funeral Home, 22955 Hollywood Road, Leonardtown, MD, 20650.

Memorial contributions in Kay's name may be made to Hospice of St. Mary's, 44724 Hospice Lane, Callaway, MD 20620.

George Mattingly, 73

George Aloysius Mattingly Jr., 73, of Leonardtown, MD, passed away July 5, 2024, at MedStar Georgetown University Hospital in Washington, D.C., of complications from lung cancer.

He was born Dec. 6, 1950, in Washington, D.C., the son of George A. Mattingly Sr. and Elizabeth "Betty Wise" Duke Mattingly.

George graduated from Chopticon High School in 1969.

He served in the National Guard and the Army in the early 1970s. After the service, he moved to Garrett County where he worked at the Wisp ski resort and the Coca Cola Bottling Plant. He returned to Southern Maryland in 1978.

George was an auto body technician for more than 40 years. He worked at several car dealerships and body shops in Leonardtown and Lexington Park before operating his own business in Great Mills.

He had a love of cars that began when he was a child. He watched his father and his uncle Nace Mattingly race cars and spent lots of time hanging around garages learning all he could about cars. He joined some of his cousins as they took up drag racing as a hobby and raced their own cars at local tracks such as Aquasco Speedway and Maryland International Raceway. He raced on and off for 20-plus years. Later in life, he enjoyed being a spectator and watching his son Andrew race. George attended events at MIR up until the last 2 1/2 years of his life.

He was a collector of old bottles, always looking for sites where he could dig. He also enjoyed making abstract art with auto paint, at one time having a piece accepted in a community art show at the North End Gallery in Leonardtown. He loved to paint rocks with his initials "G.A.M." and "Leonardtown" on the back. He would place them at the Wharf and around town.

George is survived by his son Andrew of Charlotte Hall; ex-wife Linda Groves Talton of Charlotte Hall; sister, Angela Mattingly Breck (Andrew Scott) of La Plata; six half-siblings; and many nieces and nephews. George was predeceased in death by his parents and his sister, Katherine "Kay" Mattingly Aud of Leonardtown.

He was the son to the late Sidney M. Wood Sr. and Mildred Ann Pilkerton Wood. As a child, he grew up on Forest Hall Farm in an 18th century Georgian Colonial house helping the family to grow tobacco.

He then moved on to planting apple trees and ran "Plantation Apples" from 1985 to 2001. He continued his oversized garden well into his eighties, generously giving extra produce to his family and friends, as well as to the Mt. Zion Food Pantry where he often volunteered his time.

In April of 1960, he married Mary Jean Grove at Immaculate Conception Church in Mechanicsville. Together they raised six children as Alfred worked fifty-two years as a meat cutter with Safeway and McKay's Grocery Stores. They were married for 47 years until Jean's passing. John Sothoron, 74

John B. Sothoron, 74, a long-time resident of Lexington Park, MD and Keuka Lake, NY passed away on June 28, 2024, after spending his last day surrounded by his loving family. John was born in Leonardtown, November 22, 1949. He was the third of four children. His parents were Jane Bennett Sothoron and Norwood Spencer Sothoron. He grew up in the tiny village of Charlotte Hall, MD and attended Charlotte Hall Military Academy, a school that he loved and often told stories about in his later years. He then went on to Towson State College where he earned a B.S. degree in Business Administration. He also played lacrosse and was the team's goalie. He earned All-American honors with the Tigers, and established friendships there that have lasted over 50 years. While in college John met Mary (Keller) in 1969. They were married in 1973 and shared an amazing love for one another that lasted for over 50 years.

Following college they returned to live in southern Maryland. John coached lacrosse at St. Mary's College of Maryland from 1975-1981 and during that time, won two Tri-State Conference championships. He was named coach of the year for that league in 1979. In 1981 he left St. Mary's to be an assistant coach at the University of Pennsylvania. He loved the job but disliked the city and returned to St. Mary's. They raised three sons, Jay (Kate) of Dallas, Reed (Liz) of Baltimore and Tyler, of New Orleans. In the following years he owned a restaurant on Solomons Island and after selling Harbor Lights, he started his own a custom home business, Sothoron Homes, Inc. It had been his dream for a long time to do that. He built custom homes for people all over St. Mary's and Calvert County for 30 years.

After he left the University of Pennsylvania, he thought he was finished with coaching. However, that was not to be. In 1989 two boys from St. Mary's Ryken called him and asked him if he would help them start a lacrosse program at the school. He said yes, he would help them get it started

FINANCIAL FOCUS®

How strong is your emergency fund?

You can't predict financial emergencies — but you can prepare for them.

To do that, you can build an emergency fund to pay for unexpected expenses, some of which may be sizable. Without one, you might be forced to dip into your investments, possibly including your retirement accounts, such as your IRA or 401(k). If this happens, you might have to pay taxes and penalties, and you'd be withdrawing dollars that could otherwise be growing over time to help pay for your retirement.

In thinking about such a fund, consider these questions:

- How much should I save? The size of your emergency fund should be based on several factors, including your income, your spouse's income and your cost of living. However, for most people in their working years, three to six months of total expenses is adequate. Once you're retired, though, you may want to keep up to a year's worth of expenses in your emergency fund — because you don't want to be forced to cash out investments when their price may be down, and you may not be replenishing these accounts any longer.
- How can I build an emergency fund? Given all your normal expenses — mortgage, utilities, food, transportation and others — you might find it challenging to set aside some extra money in an emergency fund. But you do have opportunities. If you're working, you could set up a direct deposit so that part of your paycheck goes directly into your emergency fund. You could also save a portion of any extra income you receive, such as bonuses and tax refunds.
- Where should I keep the money? An emergency fund has two key requirements: You need to be able to access the money immediately and you need to count on a certain amount being available. So, it's a good idea to keep your emergency fund in a liquid, low-risk account that offers protection of principal. For this fund, you're less interested in growth than you are in stability. But because interest rates have recently changed, you may be able to get a reasonable return without sacrificing liquidity or safety.
- What types of emergencies should I prepare for? Your emergency fund could be needed for any number of events: a job loss or early retirement, housing or auto repairs, unreimbursed medical bills, unexpected travel, and so on. But this fund may also be needed to help you cope with other threats. Consider this: In 2023, the U.S. saw a record 28 weather and climate disasters, each of which resulted in at least $1 billion in damages — and often many times this amount — according to the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration. Depending on where you live, your home or business may be susceptible to tornadoes, floods, wildfires, hurricanes and extreme heat and cold waves. These events can, and do, result in property repair and relocation costs, higher insurance premiums and even price increases for basic goods, such as groceries and prescription medications.

One final word about an emergency fund: It takes discipline to maintain it and to avoid tapping into it for everyday expenses or impulse purchases. The name says it all — this is a fund that should only be used for emergencies. By keeping it intact until it's truly needed, you can help yourself weather many of the storms that may come your way.

Wanderings of an Aimless Mind

by Shelby Oppermann

Nothing Like a Good Cozy

I've never been an expert in anything, not even close, but recently I received a message from the administrator of our cozy mystery book Facebook group of about 2,600 people that I had been made, along with eight others, a group expert. I was so excited! At 63 I am finally an expert in something, even if it is just for discussing cozy mysteries. We have our own little "Group Expert" messenger group which is fun. My life must have changed a lot from really exciting days to now being thrilled by being important in a social media group.

The pressure will be on during my middle of the night Facebook forays to say something that might be construed as brilliant or coherent for the group's page. I just realized that is not likely to happen. I do need to catch up on writing author's book reviews which many members try to do weekly or monthly.

There are wonderful author interviews with video or just questions and answers, and I love the book giveaways. I've been lucky a few times to receive an author's book. Yes, this may not be exciting to some, but to a complete book lover and chain reader (one book right after another) this is nirvana. The giveaways are fun ways for an author to entice you to buy and read the rest of the series.

We also have a separate group within the group called "The Book Angels". When someone is ill or doesn't have a way to get books for a while then the book angels go into action sending book care packages usually with some goodies as well. I was a recipient of one of those care packages when my husband and I had a long bout of Covid a couple of years ago. Now, I have books boxed and ready to go out to someone else.

There are also book-related bingo cards where you win things, bookmark swaps, and Christmas card swaps, and so many other things. It is one of those rare Facebook pages where there haven't been any incidents of meanness. I leave those groups quickly. Facebook definitely has many problems and bad scammers, but there are also some wonderful things like the book groups and keeping up with family and friends.

I am a member of several mystery book groups, and they have all been wonderful. Another cozy mystery page I really enjoy also has the recipes from the authors put in the back pages of their books...no not the recipe that killed people in their book. Over the years, I have tried many of these recipes. Last night I made two Facebook recipes which were really good. Unfortunately, or maybe not, many of the recipes are amazing desserts since quite a lot of cozy series are set in bakeries, restaurants, or chocolate stores. You can gain a lot of extra pounds just reading the books and more if you actually make the desserts.

Classic mysteries, suspense, police/FBI procedurals, and psychological thrillers are other favorites of mine, though sometimes they are a few, like in the psychological thrillers that are too much for me in the graphic nature of the crimes. These types of books are the "once in a while in between the cozy mystery" books. One novel by Jeffrey Deaver (which I cannot remember exactly which one because I've read so many) was so graphic in one chapter that I had to stop reading it for a few weeks, and even then when I re-started it had to quickly skim the chapter to get on with the story. Jeffrey Deaver also wrote The Bone Collector which was made into a major movie. There are a few other novels that have stopped me for a bit, like Verity by Colleen Hoover. I almost stopped breathing in many parts, but finally did finish it.

Books can make you think, question, open you up to new ideas, horrify you, or calm and soothe you. I read from all those categories, but I always come back to my cozies which have been bringing me comfort since the 1960s from authors such as Dorothy Gilman with her Mrs. Pollifax series and Lillian Jackson Braun who wrote The Cat Who...books. As soon as my father was done with a book or any genre or age level he handed it off to me. I am forever grateful.

To each new day's reading adventure, Shelby

NAVAL AIR STATION PATUXENT RIVER News

Ghost Wolves of UX-24 Change Command

Cmdr. Michael Mabrey was relieved by Cmdr. Tyler Hurst as commanding officer of Air Test and Evaluation Squadron (UX) 24 during a change of command ceremony on Jul. 11 at Naval Air Station Patuxent River.

Naval Test Wing Atlantic Commodore Capt. Elizabeth Somerville presided over the ceremony.

"When you talk to Cmdr. Mabrey about this command, it is immediately apparent just how proud he is to be a part of this Wolf Pack," said Somerville. "UX-24 has set the example for a strong culture of military and civilian collaboration, which is the very foundation of what makes Naval developmental flight test second to none in this business. Cmdr. Hurst is absolutely the right commanding officer to continue this legacy, and I am very much looking forward to seeing the Ghost Wolf team continue to thrive under his leadership."

Hurst, a native of Bakersfield, California, graduated from the U.S. Naval Academy (USNA) in 2004 and was designated a naval aviator in 2006. He flew the F/A-18E Super Hornet operationally and conducted developmental flight test on the F/A-18A-F and EA-18G in the Airborne Electronic Attack and Carrier Suitability Departments at VX-23. Hurst reported to UX-24 as the chief test pilot in February of 2023. He has flown more than 2,500 hours in 34 different aircraft and has over 600 carrier arrested landings.

"I am incredibly excited for this opportunity," said Hurst. "We have our work cut out for us as we advance UAS capabilities and continue breaking down barriers to fully integrate UAS with manned platforms in Naval Aviation."

UX-24 also welcomed Lt. Col. Jason Noll as the squadron's next chief test pilot. Noll flew the MV-22B Osprey tiltrotor in the fleet with Marine Medium Tiltrotor Squadrons (VMM) 561, 265, 262, and 161, and as a developmental test pilot at HX-21.

The ceremony was attended by more than 200 family, friends, aviators, and engineers who have served or followed alongside Mabrey and Hurst during their careers. An MQ-8 Fire Scout, MQ-9 Reaper, and several smaller unmanned aerial vehicles were on display in the hangar.

Mabrey welcomed his wife, children, and parents to celebrate his three years of service at UX-24.

"It's been a sincere privilege to be a part of the Ghost Wolf Pack for nearly three years—there is no finer team of UAS testers in the naval service," said Mabrey. "They are all in on getting winning UAS and counter-UAS capability to the fleet, and their work will only get more important in the years ahead as unmanned and autonomous systems blanket the battlespace providing overwatch, and supporting fires for the fleet."

Mabrey, a native of Missouri, graduated from the USNA in 2005 and earned his wings of gold in October 2009. He flew the F/A-18E/F Super Hornet operationally, instructed in the F/A-18A-F, and conducted developmental test in the F/A-18A-F, EA-18G, and T-45C. He has flown over 1,900 hours in 30 different types of fixed and rotary wing manned and unmanned aircraft.

During his time serving at UX-24, Mabrey led the squadron in numerous accomplishments to advance unmanned aviation and support fleet operators.

For the MQ-8 Fire Scout, UX-24 supported the fleet through safety pauses to expedite investigations for return to flight, stood up the first Fire Scout detachment in the 5th Fleet area of responsibility, conducted high risk ship suitability testing to expand operating envelopes, and tested optically based passive shipboard recovery systems.

Blackjack and supporting initial prototyping for the Medium Aerial Resupply Vehicle - Expeditionary Logistics program.

The Counter UAS department conducted simultaneous test of five systems while also supporting a host of external customers.

The squadron's RQ-23 Tigershark UAS served as a flexible payload asset allowing testing of a variety of sensor suites and providing an invaluable training tool for the U.S. Naval Test Pilot School systems syllabus.

UX-24 also stood up a Collaborative Combat Aircraft program in coordination with the U.S. Air Force and Australian allies to develop unmanned assets for the Air Wing of the Future.

Mabrey moves on to the Navy's F/A-18 and EA-18G Program Office (PMA-265) at the Naval Air Systems Command.

UX-24 is a component of Naval Test Wing Atlantic, under Naval Air Warfare Center Aircraft Division. With facilities in Patuxent River, Maryland; Lakehurst, New Jersey; and Orlando, Florida NAWCAD advances capability and operational readiness for naval aviation and our warfighters.

For more information about NAWCAD, please go to www.navair.navy.mil or follow us on Facebook at <https://www.facebook.com/MyNAWCAD/>.

UX-24 also stood up the flight test program for the MQ-9 Reaper, providing critical payload integration data to advance Marine Unmanned Aerial Vehicle Squadron capabilities which have been in high demand in the Indo-Pacific geographic area.

The squadron also championed the development of the MQ-25 Stingray to provide unmanned aerial refueling capabilities to the fleet.

The squadron's Small Tactical Unmanned Aerial Systems Department led testing to support the initial operational capabilities decision for the TRV-150 Tactical Resupply UAS while sundowning the RQ-21

Striped Bass Fishing Closed Through July 31

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources reminds recreational anglers that targeting striped bass in the Chesapeake Bay and its tidal tributaries is prohibited from July 16 through July 31.

This closure is necessary to protect the species, because when water and air temperatures rise in the hottest part of summer, fish are more vulnerable to dying after being caught and released.

While recent research has suggested that environmental factors, such as warm winters and low water flows are significant factors influencing spawning success, the summer closure of the recreational striped bass fishery is one of several management measures the department implemented to protect the resident stock of striped bass and decrease overall mortality in Chesapeake Bay.

Recent heat waves in Maryland have already triggered nearly a dozen "red flag" advisory days when anglers are encouraged not to fish for striped bass after 10 a.m. The Striped Bass Summer Fishing Advisory Forecast is an awareness campaign aimed at reducing striped bass mortality during the summer fishing season when catch-and-release fishing is allowed.

A midseason closure was introduced in 2020 and aims to protect fish during the weeks when weather conditions cause stress on striped bass and the chance of death from catch and release is high. Recreational dead discards, when a fish dies after being caught and returned to the water, accounted for 21% of total fishing-related striped bass deaths in the Bay in the most recent stock assessment data published in 2022.

During the closure, DNR officials encourage anglers to pursue other fish instead of striped bass, such as invasive blue catfish and Chesapeake Channa, also known as snakehead, by using different fishing methods than those used for striped bass. These invasive species have no bag or size limits and their harvest contributes to a healthier ecosystem in the Bay. Tips and methods for fishing blue catfish can be found on the DNR website.

The Chesapeake Bay recreational fishery will reopen from August 1 through December 10, at which time anglers may keep one striped bass per person, per day, with a minimum length of 19 inches and a maximum length of 24 inches.

Letters to the Editor

'Immature and unprofessional'

I've seen a good amount of support for Brandie Edelen, a candidate running for the At-Large position on the St. Mary's County Board of Education. Edelen talks about her background and experience in education so I was really considering her as a candidate. I always try to vote for the right person in the right position. After last week, I'm rethinking my decision.

The local teachers union, EASMC, released their endorsements. I wasn't aware until Edelen posted on Facebook that EASMC "voted against endorsing" her. Later, she shared a meme suggesting education unions are causing "rot" in the school system.

EASMC "does not care about the students... Who on earth in their right mind would be proud to endorse a 21-year-old kid who lives with his parents and has no children?? God help our county," Edelen wrote.

Needless to say, I was surprised to see this response from a candidate touting her experience, knowledge, and wisdom. Edelen's temperament over losing an endorsement is immature and unprofessional. EASMC members vote on endorsements. So not only is she insulting her opponent, she's also insulting educators who are constituents she may represent.

If elected, will Edelen act this way if other board members disagree with her? Can she manage a respectful relationship with necessary partners, like the Commissioners and EASMC? Endorsements are nice, but voters don't rely on them. I look for the candidate who earns my vote, not the one who feels entitled to it.

Appeals Board Approves Hollywood Townhouse Project

Artist's rendering of the planned townhouses

By Guy Leonard
Staff Writer

An 18-townhouse project proposed for Hollywood and approved earlier by the county planning commission but needed a key variance from the zoning ordinance got it from the county zoning appeals board last week.

The Villages at Clarks Mill is proposed for construction on Mervell Dean Road as a relatively high-density project that could only go forward if it met a requirement of 50 percent of its total area was reserved for open space.

The project would be built on 3.7 acres.

The developer of the project, FDR Holdings LLC, though, requested a variance to allow for just 20 percent of the project being dedicated to open space.

The appeals board also granted a variance to the developer that would reduce the required buffer yard on the south side of the property from 65-feet to just 32.5 feet.

The project is envisioned to be an addition to the limited stock of more affordable housing stock for young professionals and their families.

Several county residents sent letters to the Board of Appeals supporting the project.

But others sent in comments that the project would over-crowding the property, and the number of homes should be reduced from 18.

The five members of the appeals board who heard the case at their July 11 hearing all voted in favor of the variances.

The planning commission approved the concept site plan for the project in May.

Sex Assault Suspect Arrested

On July 10, 2024, Deputies from the St. Mary's County Sheriff's Office began investigating the report of an assault on two women in Lexington Park by an unknown male who also purportedly exposed himself during the incident.

On July 11, new video evidence and information obtained by Deputies indicated that the original allegations were factually inaccurate. Deputies established that at approximately 8:15 p.m., on July 10, while walking near FDR Boulevard and South Shangri-La Drive, a single female victim was assaulted by a male suspect who made nonconsensual sexual contact with her. The victim pushed the suspect away, and he then displayed an edged weapon in a threatening manner. The victim was able to leave the area without further interaction with the suspect. Video surveillance showed no other victims and no exposure of genitals by the suspect, as was alleged.

Malik Antwann Price, 21, of Lexington Park, was identified as a suspect, located, and arrested on July 11. Price was transported to the Detention and Rehabilitation Center and charged with First-Degree Assault, Second-Degree Assault, and 4th Degree Sex Offense.

The investigation into the disparities of the original statements given by the two females is ongoing.

Mechanicsville Man Convicted of First-Degree Murder

State's Attorney Jaymi Sterling announced today that following a four-day trial, a St. Mary's County jury convicted Marvin Orlando Johnson, 39, of Mechanicsville, Maryland of first-degree murder and use of a firearm in the commission of a crime of violence for the premeditated shooting and killing of his stepfather.

On May 24, 2023, deputies from the St. Mary's County Sheriff's Office responded to a residence on Three Notch Road in Mechanicsville, Maryland for a report of a male victim suffering from a gunshot wound to the head. The victim was immediately pronounced deceased by responding law enforcement officers who observed the victim appeared to have been shot in the head while he was sleeping.

The Defendant will be held without bond pending a sentencing hearing where he faces a maximum penalty of Life plus twenty years in prison.

"My hope is the verdict provides peace and a sense of justice for this family who are living with the unimaginable nightmare of a beloved family member murdered at the hands of another family member," said State's Attorney Sterling. "I would like to thank the members of the law enforcement and prosecutorial team who worked diligently in the successful investigation and prosecution of this tragic homicide."

Senior Assistant State's Attorney Jeff Maylor and Assistant State's Attorney Zach Varda prosecuted the case on behalf of the citizens of St. Mary's County.

Detective Andrew Burgess of the St. Mary's County Sheriff's Office was the lead investigator.

The Honorable Amy Lorenzini presided over the case.

New Liquor License Approved Over Opposition

By Guy Leonard
Staff Writer

The county Alcohol Beverage Board approved a Class A beer, wine and liquor license for a new business that wants to start up in the First Colony Shopping Center in California.

This, despite some business owners protesting that the general area had enough liquor stores and did not need another.

The applicants argued on the behalf of their proposed business, First Colony Wine and Spirits, that the major shopping center had two anchor stores — a Target department store and a Giant grocery store — but no liquor store in the center itself.

Prakashkumar Patel and Milton Copsey, business partners in the First Colony venture, plan to make their business distinguished from other liquor stores by selling high-end, difficult-to-find-goods.

The proposed business would lie in the 8th election district and there are several liquor licenses still available to be had for that area of the county; the Alcohol Beverage Board strictly regulates the number of liquor licenses available in the county to prevent the proliferation of alcohol, especially to minors.

Eric Ford, a county resident who said he ran a liquor store, said the applicants “need to prove a need for them to be there.”

“I don’t think there is a need for one to be there,” Ford continued. “There are eight liquor stores in a mile, most of them within a half mile.”

Alcohol Beverage Board Member Richard Shin

Ford said with the advent of legal cannabis, sales of alcohol were down throughout St. Mary’s.

“Bringing in another one [liquor store] is not going to help that,” Ford said.

About half-a-dozen liquor store owners rose in opposition to the new business; David Dent, president of the licensed beverage holders association for St. Mary’s, said there was an “oversaturation of liquor stores in the area.”

“There’s approximately 12 liquor stores already,” Dent said, of the region between California to Lexington Park. “It’s an oversaturation of the market by adding a 13th liquor store to the area.”

Joe Johnson, a Mechanicsville resident, said the question before the beverage board was one of fairness.

“I’ve heard the word oversaturation used with liquor stores,” Johnson said at the July 11 meeting in Leonardtown. “I’m sure none of these business owners would give up their operations due to oversaturation.”

“I’m not sure that would be fair to limit the opportunity for someone else.”

Board member Richard Shin said he understood that established businesses sometimes feared more competition, but it was not the place to the beverage board to stymie economic competition.

“I owned a coffee and alcohol shop and I didn’t want Starbucks coming in,” Shin said. “But that’s part of the competition.”

Board member George Anas was the only one of the four-member quorum to oppose the application for a license.

“My struggle is, we have a responsibility to the citizens of St. Mary’s County and to the business as a whole,” Anas said. “There are a lot of small businesses in the room and we should strive to protect those businesses.”

“I don’t think I’ve seen enough differentiation, so that I would support this application.”

The motion to approve the license passed 3-to-1.

Commissioners Pass Updated Animal Control Ordinance

DES Director Jennifer Aubert-Utz

By Guy Leonard
Staff Writer

A controversial updated animal control ordinance introduced in the spring that had many local animal welfare advocates worried it would make finding homes for animals more difficult passed this week by unanimous vote of the Commissioners of St. Mary's County.

Among the changes to the ordinance included an enhanced schedule of fines for those who violated the ordinance, a prohibition on feeding animals in county-owned park lands as well as the requirement for anyone owning more than five dogs to obtain a commercial kennel license.

Jennifer Aubert-Utz, director of the Department of Emergency Services (DES), which oversees the animal services division, said it was not the intention of animal control officers to patrol the county in search of violators to fine.

"It starts with education... and finding a pathway to come into compliance" with the new ordinance, Aubert-Utz told county commissioners.

The fines can reach a maximum of $1,000 for repeated offenses, such as letting a dog run loose, but not for first-time offenses, Aubert-Utz attempted to reassure elected leaders.

A first offense is $50, according to the ordinance.

"It's a deterrent," Commissioner Mike Hewitt said. "It helps to deter."

Aubert-Utz said the fine and fee schedule in the ordinance is based on the severity and frequency of violations.

Aubert-Utz said foster groups and registered rescue organizations would be exempt from the five-dog rule in the ordinance and military service people who give their dog or dogs to other people while they deploy would also receive special consideration.

"There is room for foster care," Aubert-Utz said. "There's room for us to work with these military families."

"We want them to come back home to that pet they adore."

But Commissioner Eric Colvin questioned what animal control officers would do with an owner who simply liked dogs and owned more than five.

Aside from obtaining a required license, Aubert-Utz said animal control officers would respond to such a home and help the owner find a way to rehome one or more of their dogs.

"Are we penalizing a pet owner to hold them to the same standard as a commercial kennel?" Colvin asked. "Those are two different things in my mind."

The DES director also said the prohibition against feeding animals — usually feral cats — on county park land was one of public safety.

"It comes down to health and sanitation concerns," she said. "It's another mess to clean up and it's a threat to our public health."

Aubert-Utz said the county would work with rescue organizations to still feed and care for such feral cat colonies — perhaps the best known is the one in Lexington Park. "We're not going to eradicate or chase these cats out," Aubert-Utz told commissioners.

Association Watches Over Golden Beach Community

By Guy Leonard
Staff Writer

Dale and Sherry Antosh, both in the mid-to-late-70s, are retired and live on a beautiful waterfront property in the Golden Beach/Patuxent Knolls community in north county.

They could choose to live out their golden years nestled away from most other people, but instead they have decided to be among the most civic-minded and active residents in their community.

Dale, 77, is president of the Golden Beach/Patuxent Knolls Civic Association and has been for about the past 10 years; Cheryl is a member of the board of directors.

Working with a core group of about 20 other executive committee and board members, their mission is a simple — but not easy — one.

“All we are is a group of concerned homeowners, all volunteers, who want to make this a better place to live,” Dale told The County Times.

It's a tall order considering the size of the community, approximately 1,200 homes with all kinds of issues coming to light throughout the year, whether they are neighbor disputes, residents misusing their property, complaints about speeding or the use of golf carts — which are now legal for such communities — by juveniles.

“People call us for everything,” Dale said. “If we can't help them, we try to point them

That usually is the county government or the sheriff's office, Dale said, but residents often feel more comfortable calling Dale and Sherry first because they know they will work to find a solution to the problem, even though they pay taxes for government services and no fees to be a member of the civic association.

There is a management company, BEMANCO, that charges $28 a year for maintenance of the beach common areas and has done so since the community first started being developed in the 1960s.

At their age they still exhibit a lot of energy and enthusiasm for the work of keeping a community healthy and happy.

“It's because we care about this place,” Sherry said. “We try to get fun things for kids and families to do.”

This is where the duties of the civic association truly lay, Dale and Sherry said, in keeping the community connected.

The civic association sponsored activities include an annual kids' fishing tournament, an Easter egg hunt, an Independence Day fireworks show and parade, golf cart poker runs, a Christmas bazaar, ginger bread house contest, National Night Out and a community yard sale among others.

The events help raise funds for the civic association and provide enjoyment, and connection, for the community, they said.

The fireworks show costs upwards of Fishing tournaments are among the many activities organized by the Civic Association each year.

$10,000 each year alone and the success of the events often depends on the number of volunteers who come out to make it so, they said.

“We have a lot of people who do help,” Sherry said. “We're even getting younger people to help now, too.”

Dale taught public school for 35 years in Prince George's County before retiring, while Sherry worked for the General Service Administration, but both say they've never been busier.

The civic association can do little, Sherry said, to fix problems without contacting the county but she often finds herself being the one on the phone trying to find solutions to problems, whether its homes being used as vacation rentals and causing disturbances or, in one particular case, a resident who essentially tried to turn their property to an industrial use.

“I'm on the phone calling about the Airbnb's up the street,” Sherry said. “I'm the big mouth.”

Dale has also testified before the state government on the effects underwater oyster leases will have on residents' enjoyment of their own property and viewsheds.

“As far as our problems go, we just try to keep a close eye on things,” Dale said.

Carol Farley, the association's treasurer, said Dale's outgoing nature has helped him build networks that help the community better informed about what is going on around it, especially in dealing with encroaching development and increasing traffic.

“He doesn't have to do some of the things he does,” Farley said. “But he tries to help [the community] as much as he can.”

“He used to teach school, so he knows how to talk to people.”

Perhaps the greatest challenge the civic association has, Farley said, is ensuring there are people willing to take the place of current members.

“Getting volunteers, we need plenty of help,” Farley said. “Especially since we're up in age.”

Debbie Gunnell, the association's vice president, praised Antosh's leadership.

“They are wonderful,” Gunnell said. “That's one of the reasons we moved here, because of the civic association and all the things it does.”

“They always put the community first; they're not hesitant to go find solutions.”

But their problems are outweighed, they said, by the beauty of living in Golden Beach with other people who feel the same way about their community.

“We stay busier now than we ever did when we were working,” Sherry said.

“What fills our life now is the civic association,” her husband said.

“And we love it,” she returned.

School Resource Officer Funding Approved

By Guy Leonard
Staff Writer

The Commissioners of St. Mary's County approved this week a state grant funding package to continue the school resources officer program.

School resource officers are deputy sheriff's that are assigned to individual county public schools to office enhanced police protection against external threats as well as internal issues.

They also help foster good relations between students, staff and law enforcement.

The state grant program award is based on the number of schools in a county — 28 in total for St. Mary's — and the allocation from the state for fiscal 2025 is $196,491, which requires a matching sum from the county of $103,397.

Commissioner Mike Hewitt commented, when he heard the presentation from the sheriff's office chief finance officer Lottie

Bell and Capt. Shawn Moses, commented that the split between the state and county was about 60 percent to 40 percent.

"It's a good deal," Hewitt said.

There are six assigned, dedicated school resource officers, Moses told commissioners which allows the county's high schools and middle schools to be covered. Moses said there is one vacancy.

This leaves the protection of elementary schools to deputy sheriffs who take part in what is known as the "adopt a school" program, where they can volunteer to patrol elementary schools as part of their schedule.

Commissioner Eric Colvin said the county had already planned to match the state's grant funding amount to keep the program running.

"The money was already there [in the budget] to cover this grant," Colvin said.

Commissioner Calls for Public Outcry Over SMECO Rate Increase

By Guy Leonard
Staff Writer

The Southern Maryland Electric Cooperative (SMECO) wants to increase its electricity rates to customers by 11 percent and Commissioner Mike Alderson wants the community to push back on their request at a soon-to-be-held public hearing.

"11 percent can be a lot for a lot of people," Alderson said during commissioner time at their July 16 meeting in Leonardtown. "There's this huge push for electric everything; they don't want you gas [powered appliances], they want you to drive electric cars.

"But they're going to bump 11 percent to your average household."

That increase will hurt middle and upper-middle class residents but will most impact those with lower incomes.

"When you get down to the lower income levels, you're looking at a huge hardship," Alderson said. "Show up and make your voice heard."

Alderson said he hoped a public outcry against the proposed increase would cause SMECO to "dial it back a bit" on their request.

According to SMECO's application to the state's Public Service Commission (PSC), the company proposes a rate increase of $37.9 million.

SMECO serves approximately 176,000 residential, commercial and industrial customer-members in St. Mary's, Calvert, Charles, and Prince George's counties.

The hearing will take place on Tuesday, July 23 at 7:00 p.m. at SMECO's Headquarters in Hughesville. The hearing will also have a virtual option for those unable to attend in person.

The commission will also accept written comments until August 2 which can be sent by mail or submitted electronically at <https://www.psc.state.md.us/make-a-public-comment/>

Comments sent by mail should be addressed to: Jamie Bergin, Chief Clerk, Maryland Public Service Commission, William Donald Schaefer Tower, 6 St. Paul Street, 16th Floor, Baltimore, MD 21202. So that they are noted in the proper case file, all comments should reference Case No. 9738.

To participate virtually, customers can sign up in advance to speak by sending an email to psc.pulj@gmail.com by noon on July 22.

School Cell Phone Use Plan Stops Short of Ban

By Guy Leonard
Staff Writer

A work group of parents and school staff as well as students have come up with a plan to manage student cell phone use during the school day and while the proposed plan comes short of a full ban on their use, there are restrictions.

The plan begins with administrators being allowed to use "system supported" cell phones for school-centered communication only, while system staff would refrain from using them while working with students.

High school students would be made to carry their cell phones in a deactivated and hidden state and could only access them during one lunch period, according to the proposed plan.

Middle school students would only be allowed to use their cell phones during the end of the school day.

Elementary students would have a "bell to bell ban" on cell phone use and their possession while at school would be discouraged.

The St. Mary's County Board of Education was briefed on the proposal at their July 17 meeting.

"Without cell phones in schools, students are achieving at higher levels," said Dr. Dale Farrell, schools chief of staff. "And their emotional wellbeing has improved greatly."

Virginia, Indiana, California and Florida have issued bans on cell phone use in schools.

"Some of our neighboring counties are going through the same processes that we are," Farrell said. "Recently, Calvert County just issued a ban on their cell phones in schools."

Under current rules students can possess cell phones or other wireless devices but their use can be restricted or taken away if they disrupt normal operations.

Essentially, they must be turned off from the beginning through the end of the instructional day but there are some special circumstances under which a student could use them during class based on need.

A survey of staff, students and parents was issued to gauge their concerns on the issue; there have been more than 900 student responses and more than 2,500 responses from parents.

"We are revisiting that regulation now and looking at revisions based on the findings of the work group," said Cheryl Long, director of Student Services. "People are interested in this hot topic and are still responding."

The survey showed that about one-third of middle school students use their cell phone in school every day, while almost 71 percent of high school students do the same.

Almost 70 percent of students were using their cell phones to send text messages, Farrell said, while 49.4 percent were using them for instructional applications.

About 40 percent reported browsing the internet on the phones while about 36 percent admitted to using them to play games, the survey showed.

Almost 86 percent of parents and 69 percent of staff say students should not be allowed to use their cell phones during the instructional day, according to the survey, while 69 percent of students believed they should.

But even students admitted, Farrell said, that phones were a distraction from the school day and made social interactions harder.

"Students felt almost an emotional addiction or need for their cell phones," Long said of the work group's findings.
